4523

29c

The Adventures of the KEWPIES

COLORING BOOK

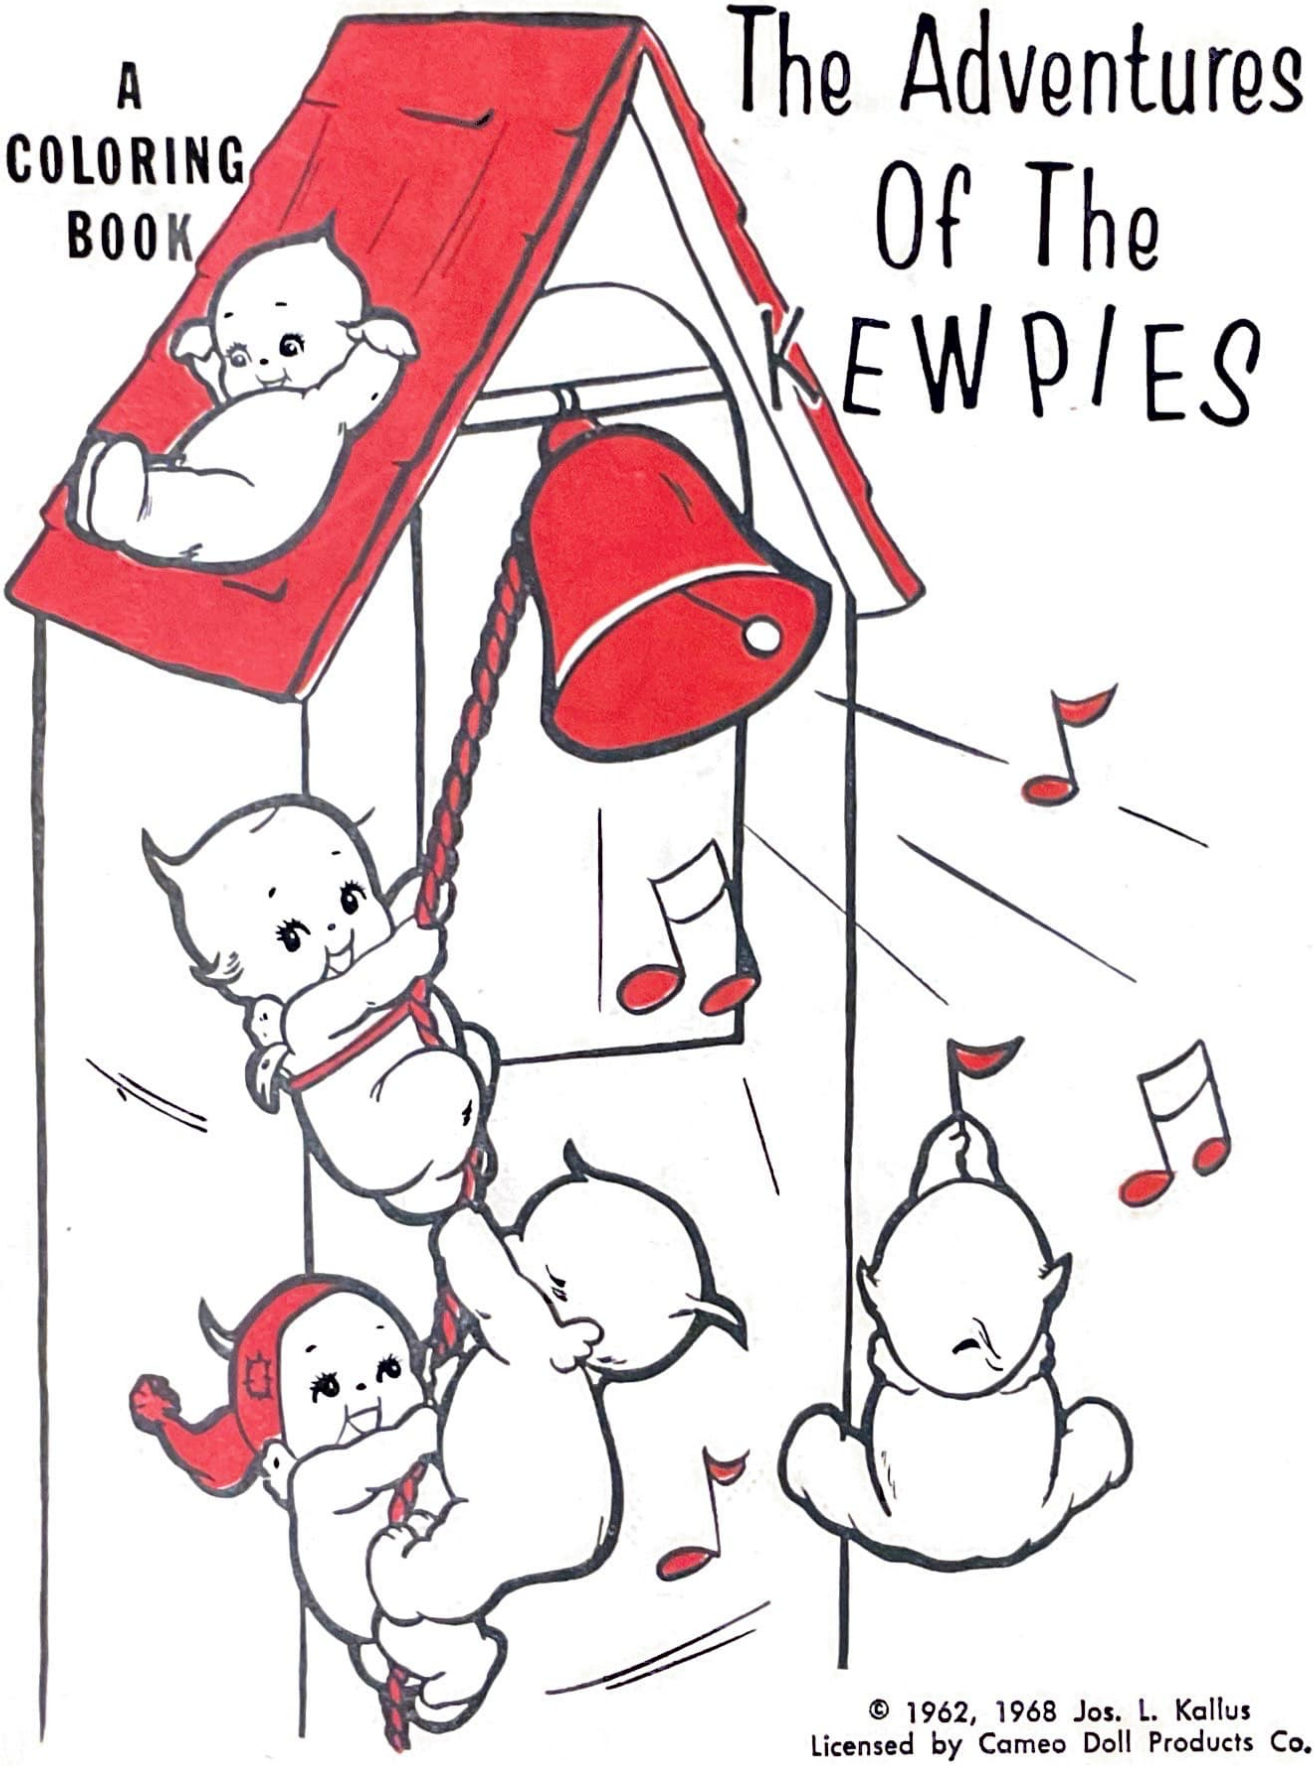
AUTHORIZED EDITION

COMMENDED BY PARENTS MAGAZINE AS ADVERTISED THEREIN

SAALFIELD

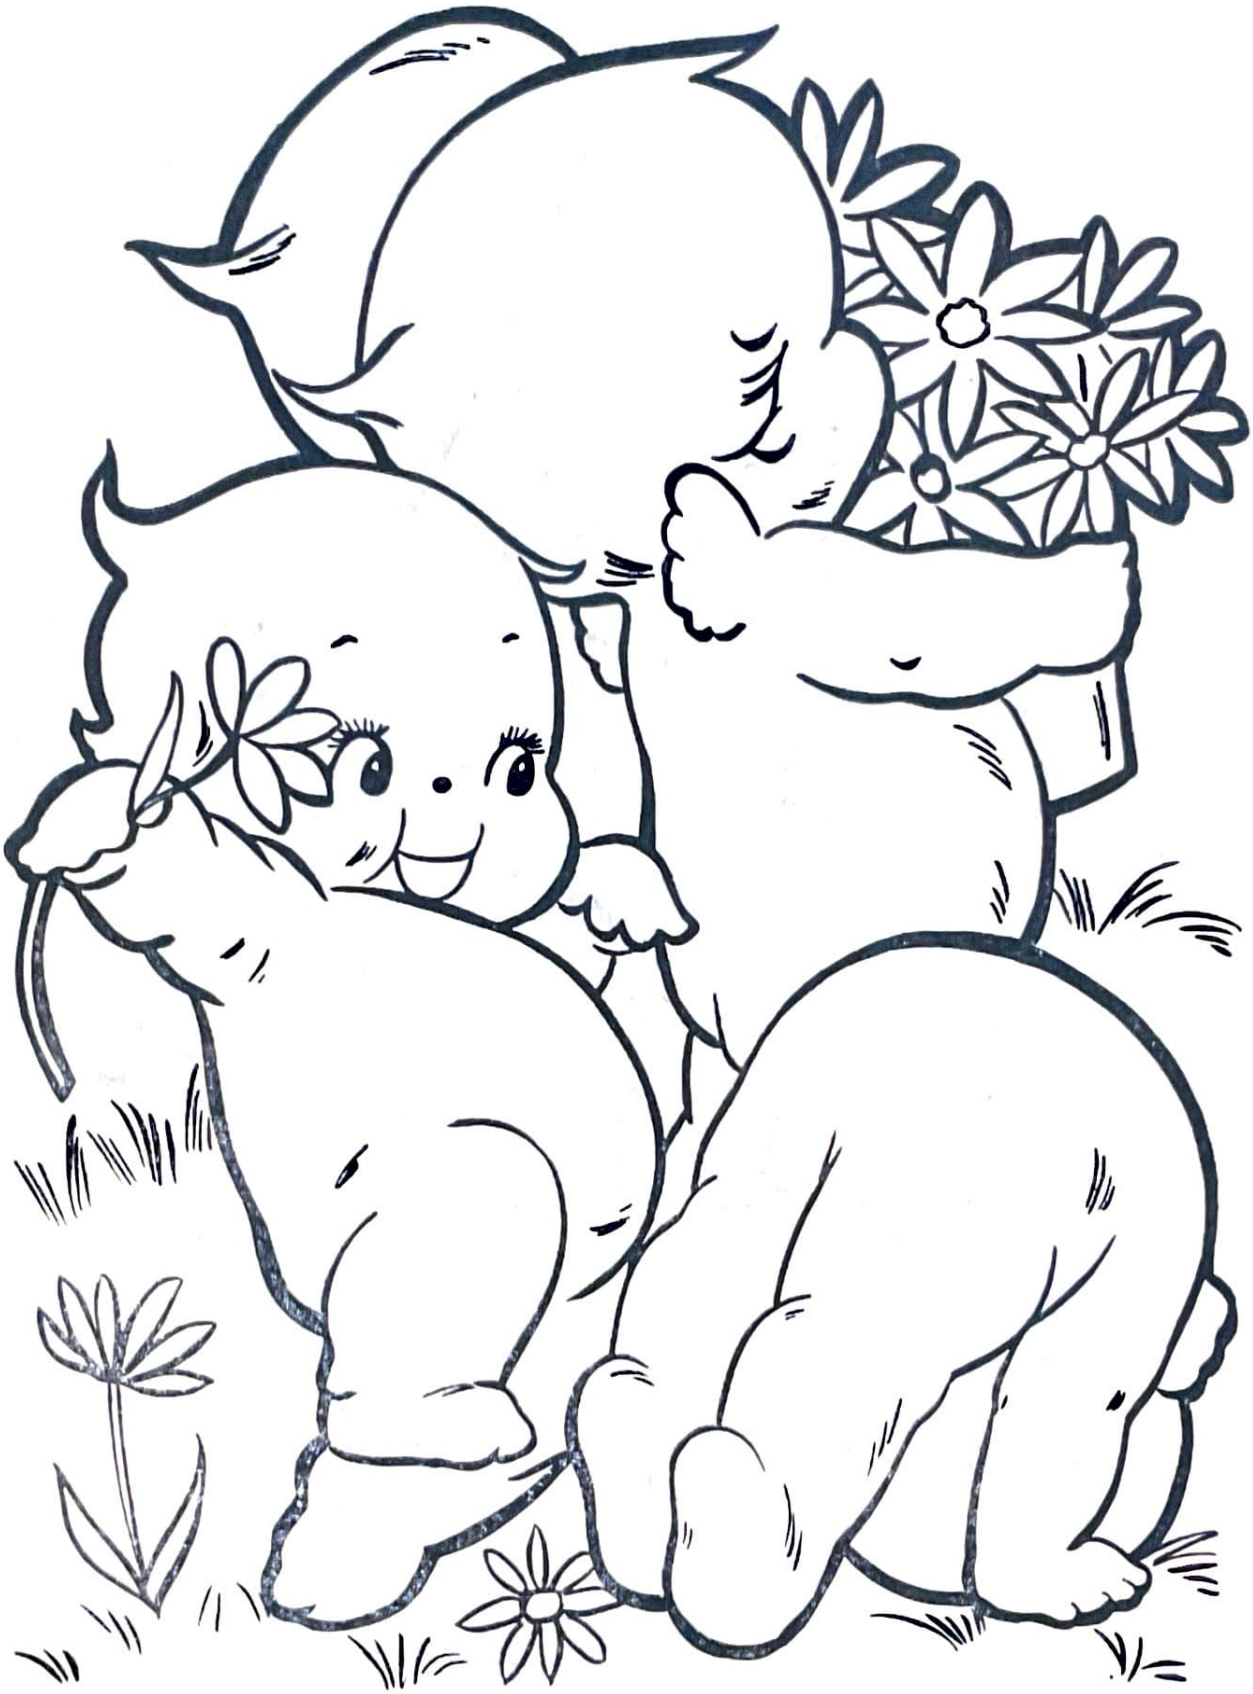
A COLORING BOOK

The Adventures Of The KEWPIES



© 1962, 1968 Jos. L. Kallus
Licensed by Cameo Doll Products Co.

New York – THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY – Akron, Ohio
Made in U. S. A.



Kewpies love flowers-------and birds-------and leaves-------and butterflies-------and grasshoppers. Kewpies love everything!

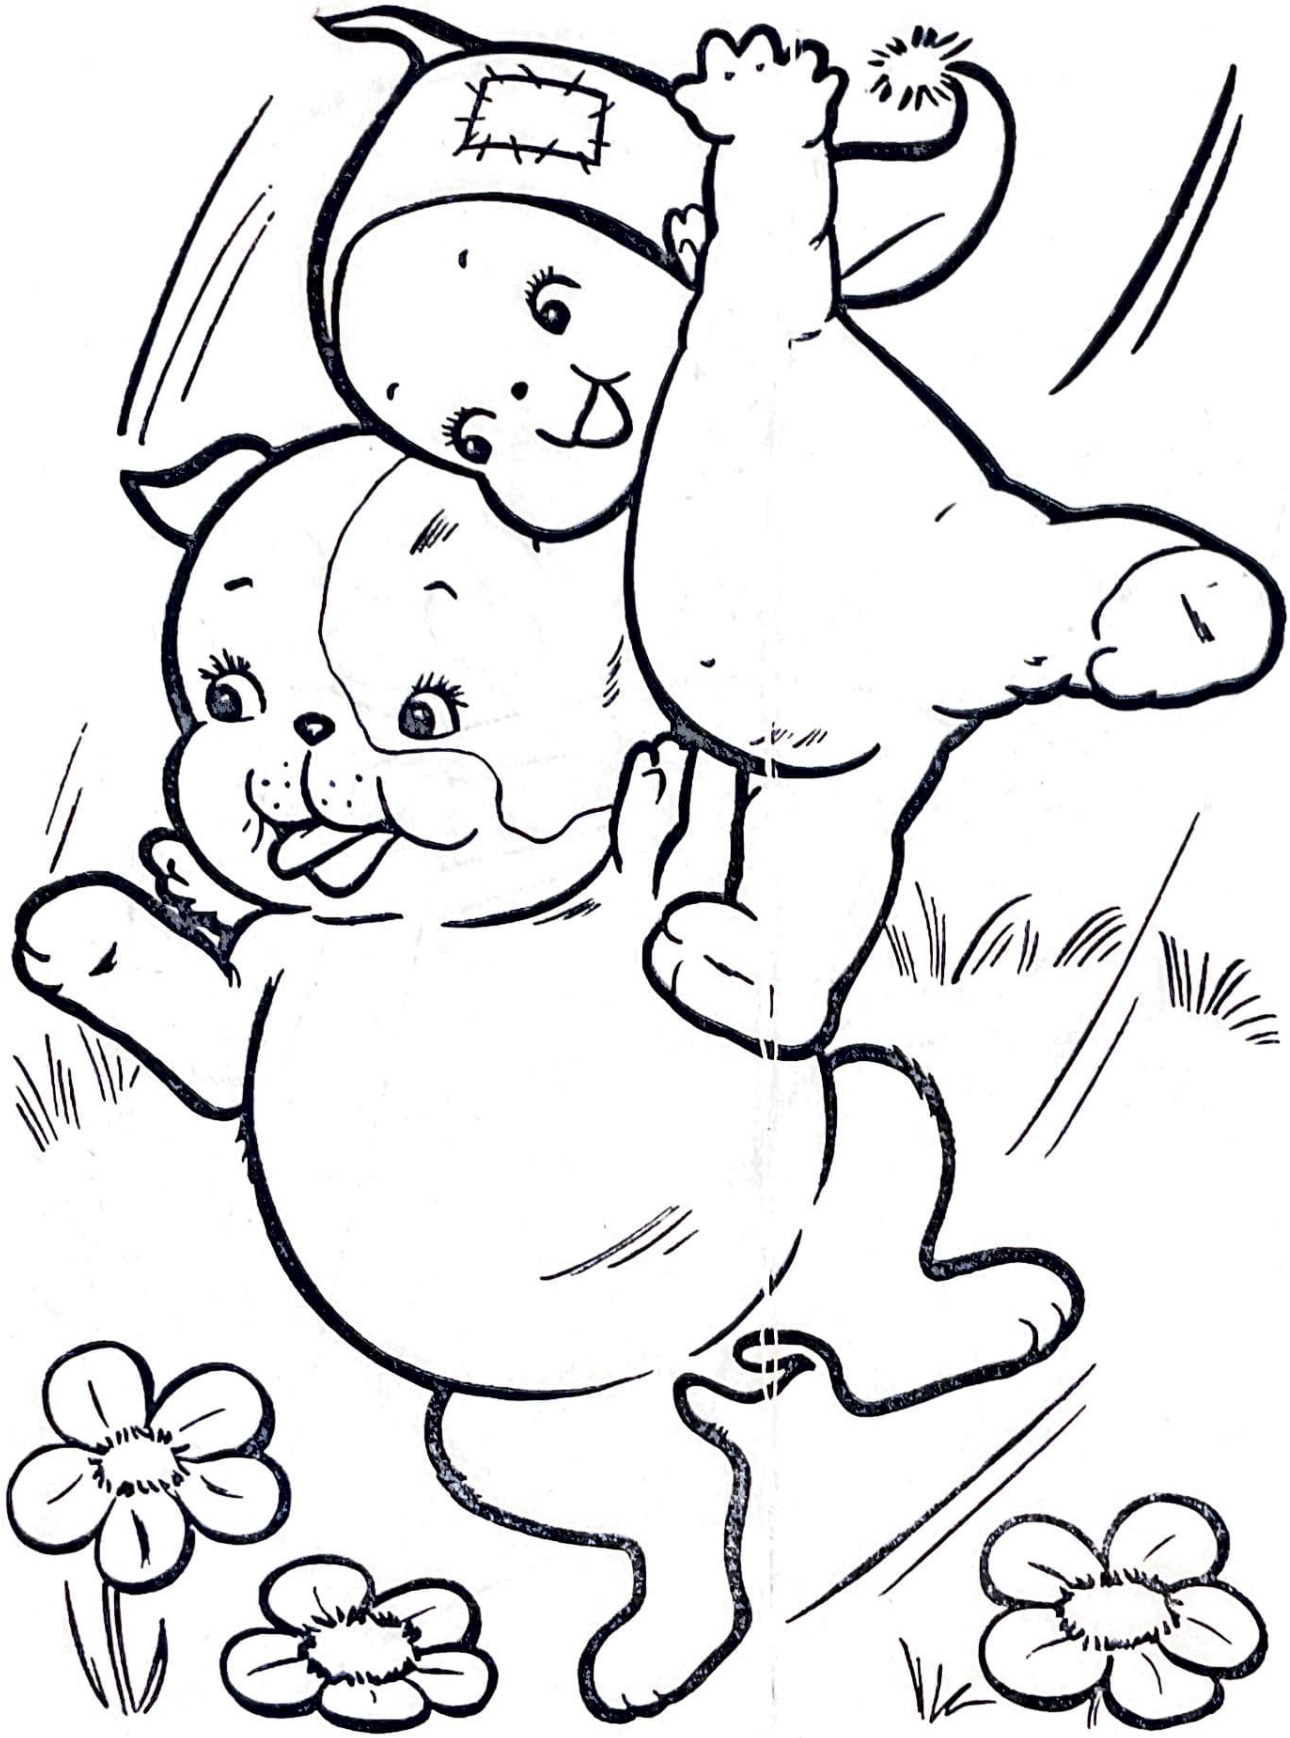
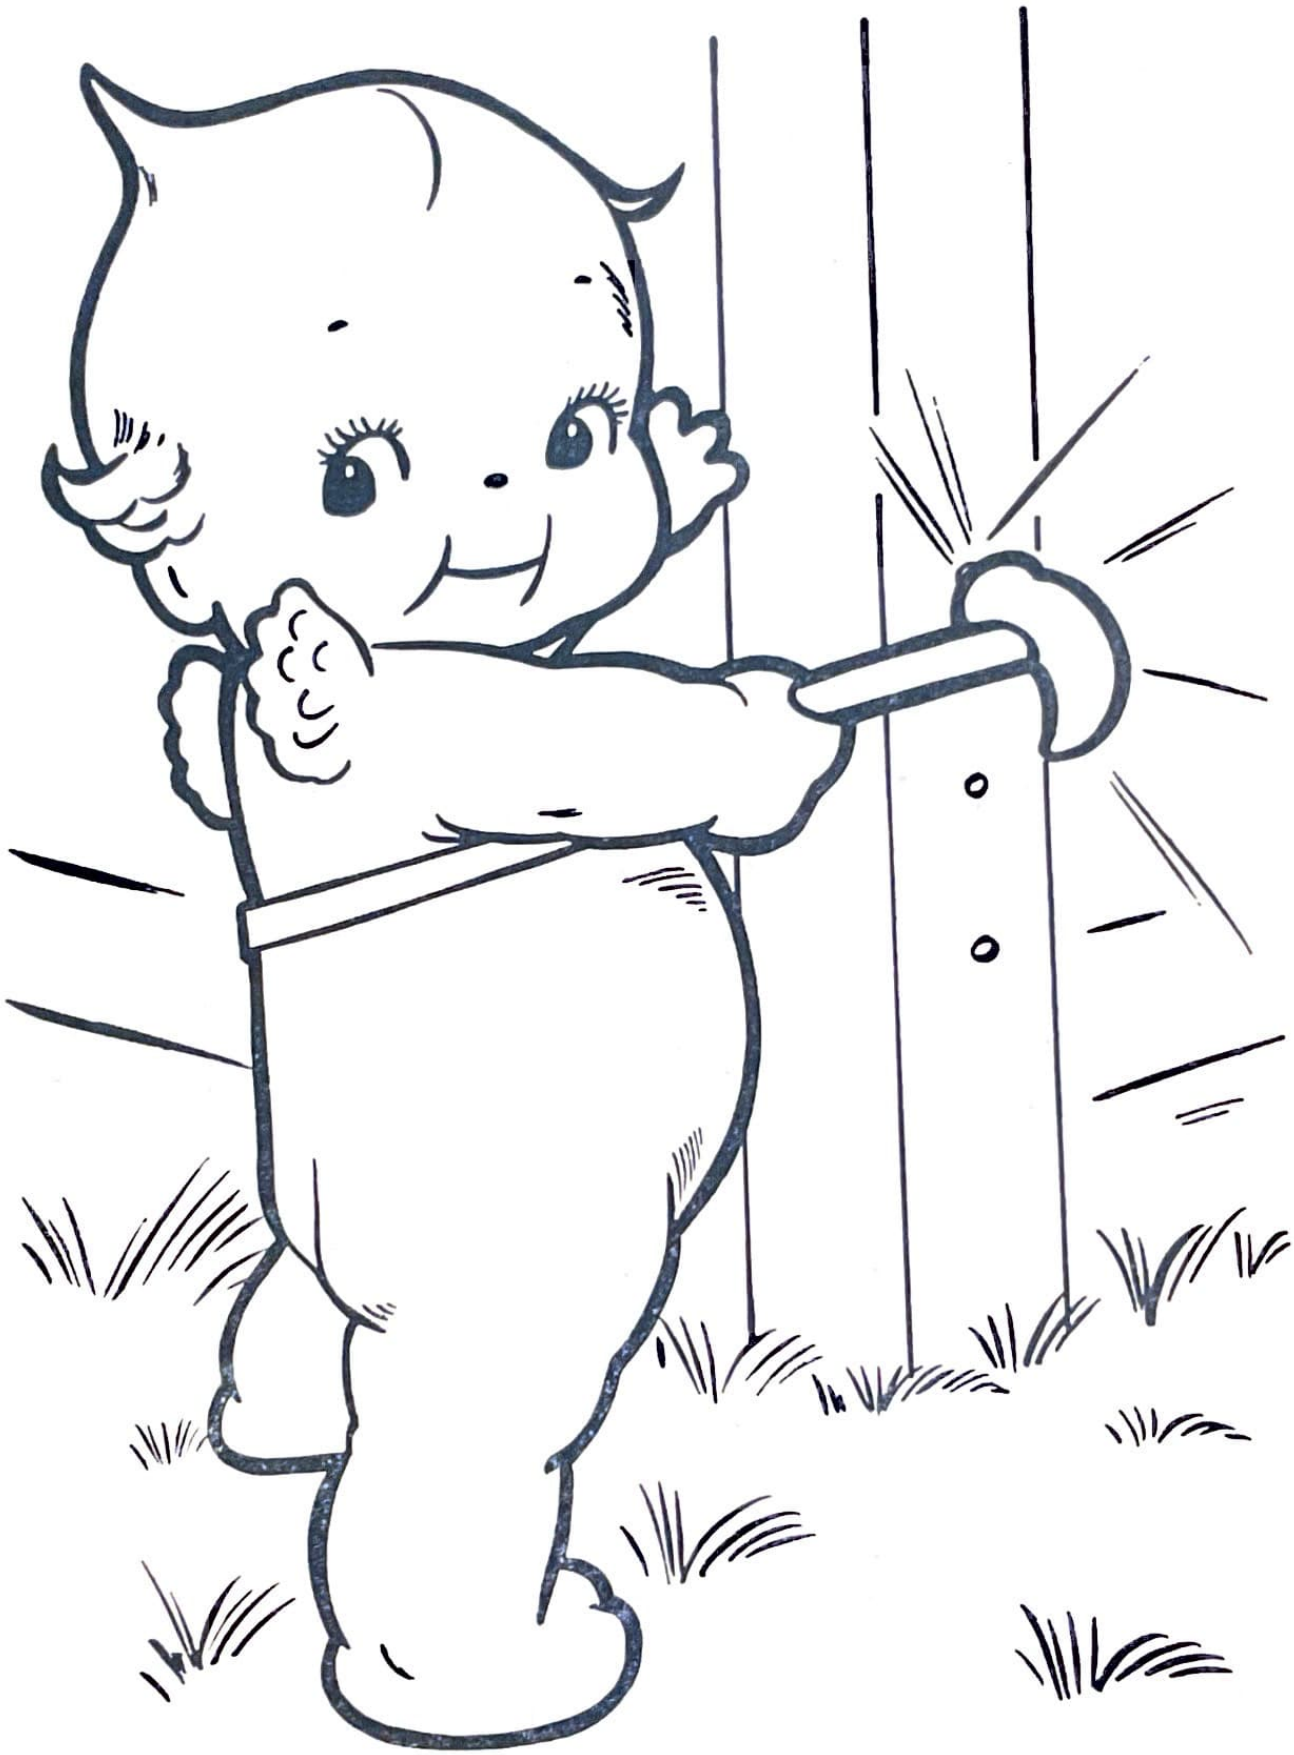
WAG, the Kewpie Chief



KEWPIDOODLE and PATCHES

BOOKMAN

Kewpie students like to study.



CARPENTER

THE Kewpies
PREPARE for WINTER

"Time to get ready for winter," Bookman tells the Kewpies.

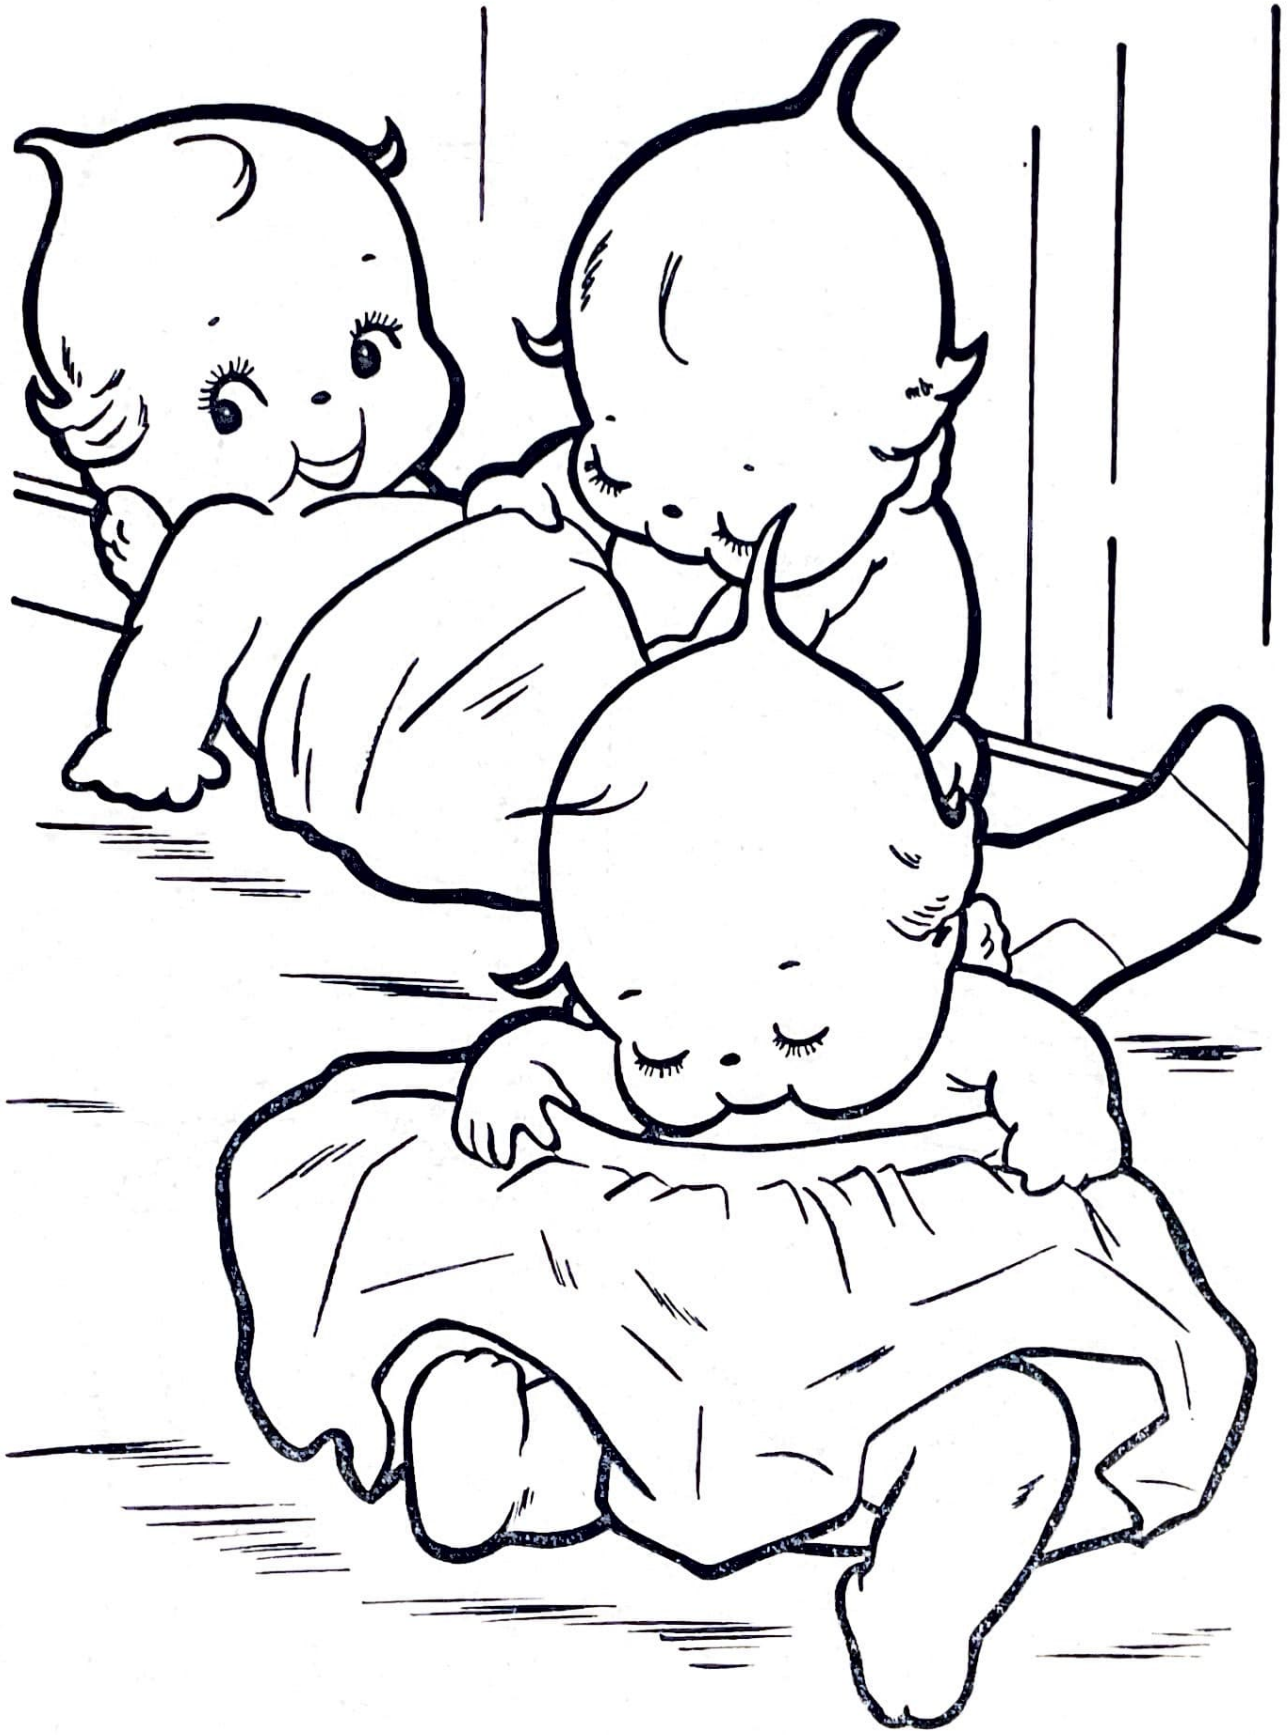
"Birdies, stay in your snug little nest. It will keep you warm."

"Madam, have you done your canning?" asks Cook.

"Do you have your winter's supply of nuts, Mr. Squirrel, or are you eating them now?"

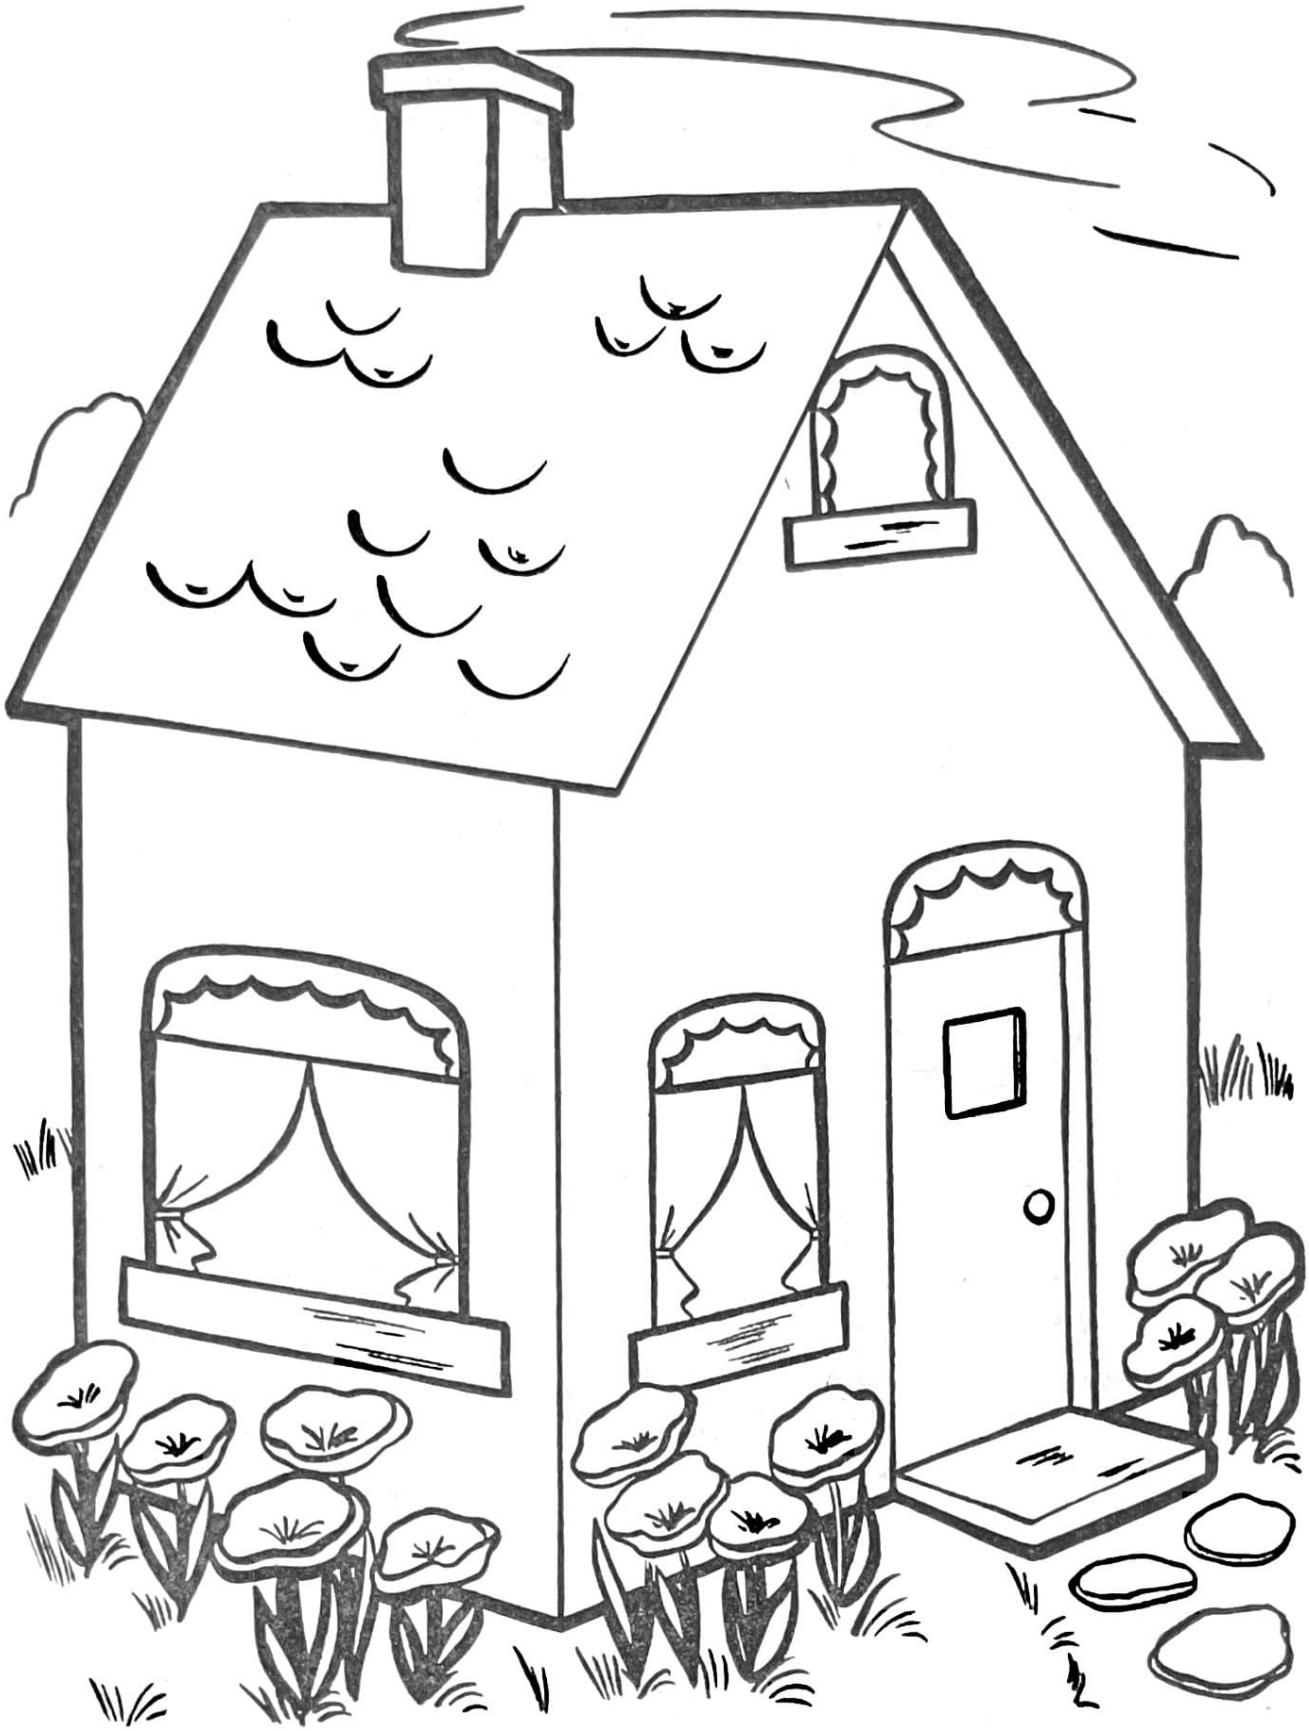
Poor little Susie has no one to get her ready for winter.

The Kewps want to help her. They hurry to the store.

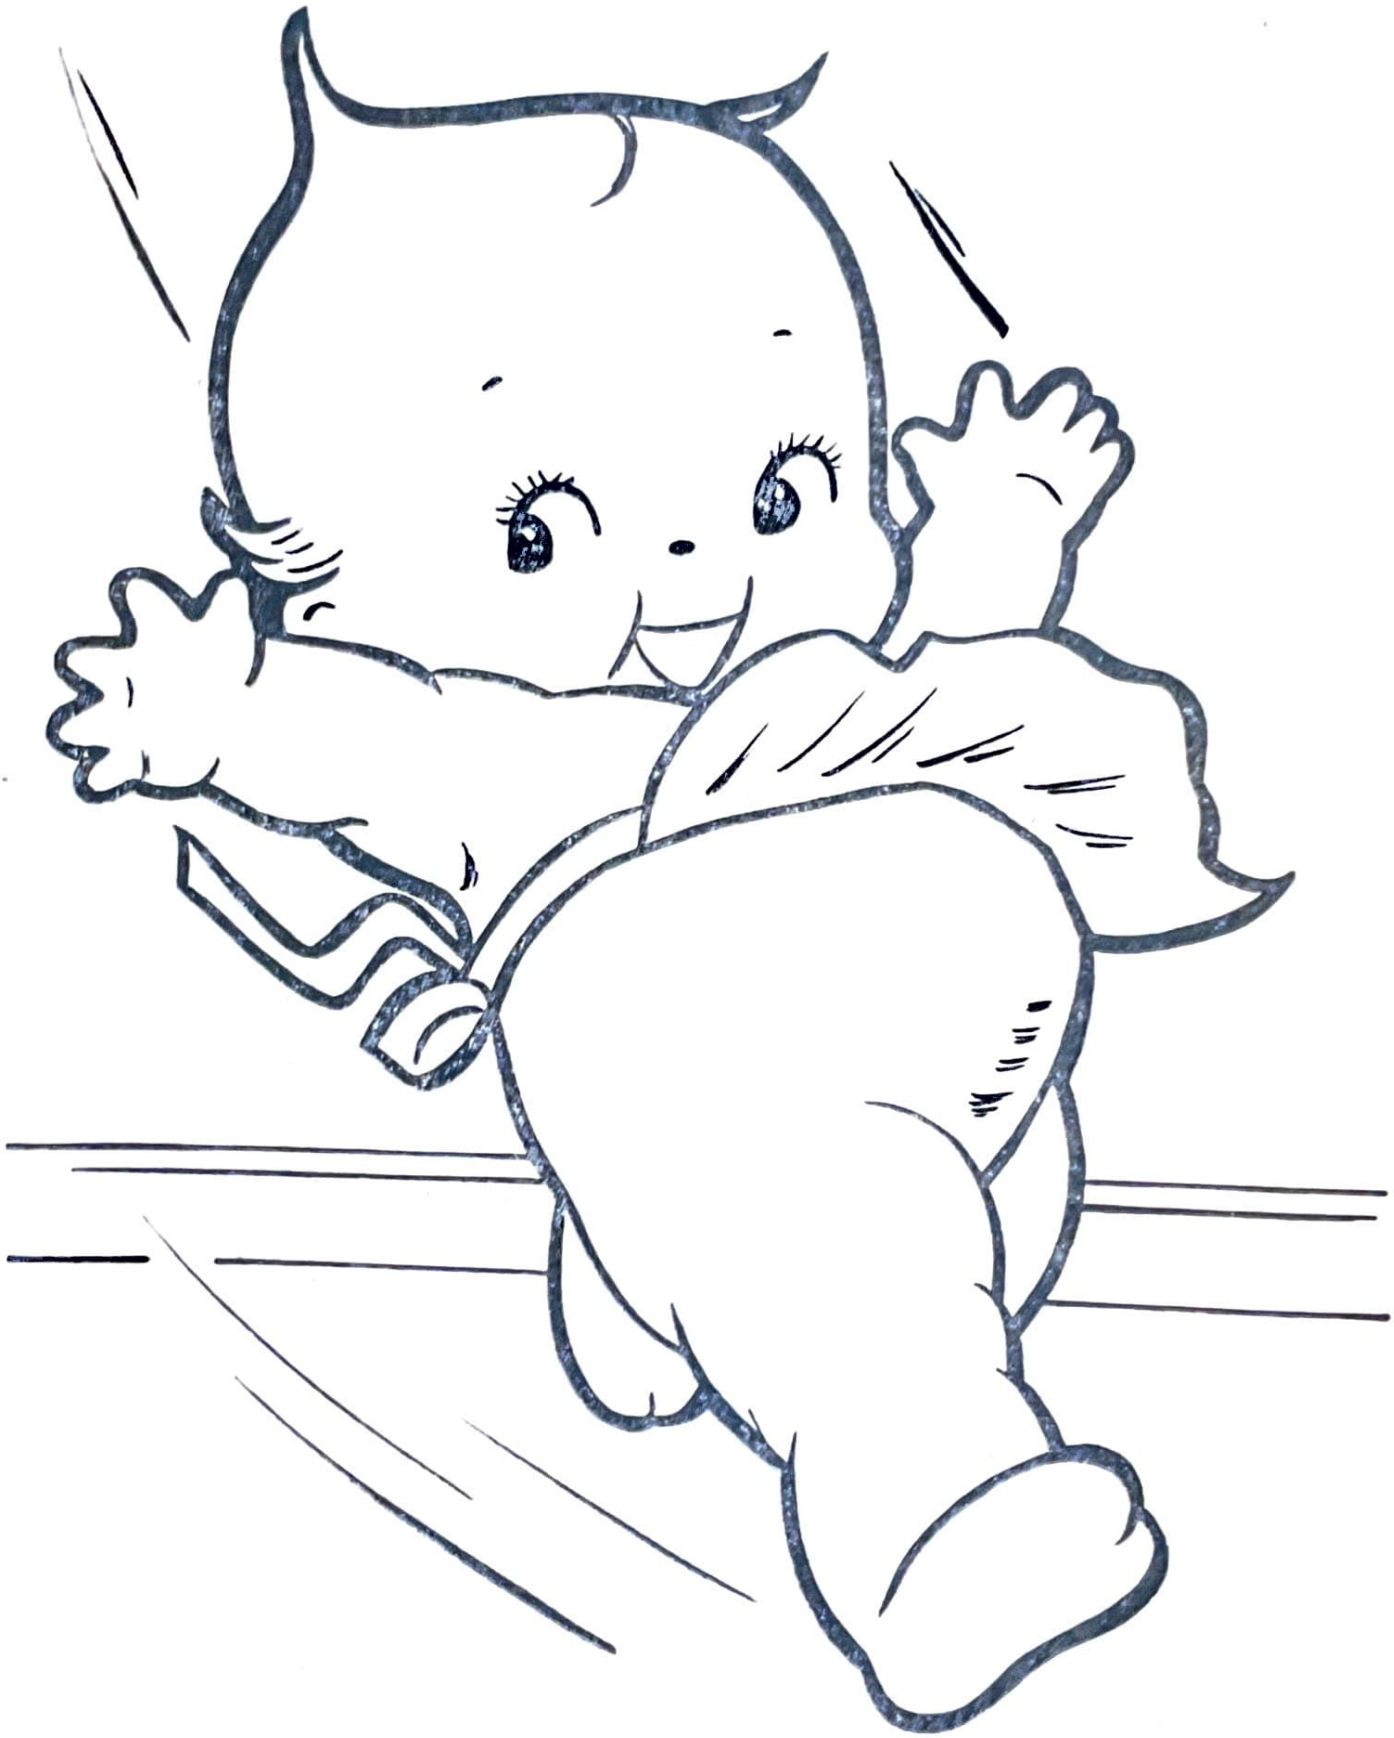


They get a fine Sunday outfit for Susie.

Susie is very happy. She has never had a pretty Sunday outfit.

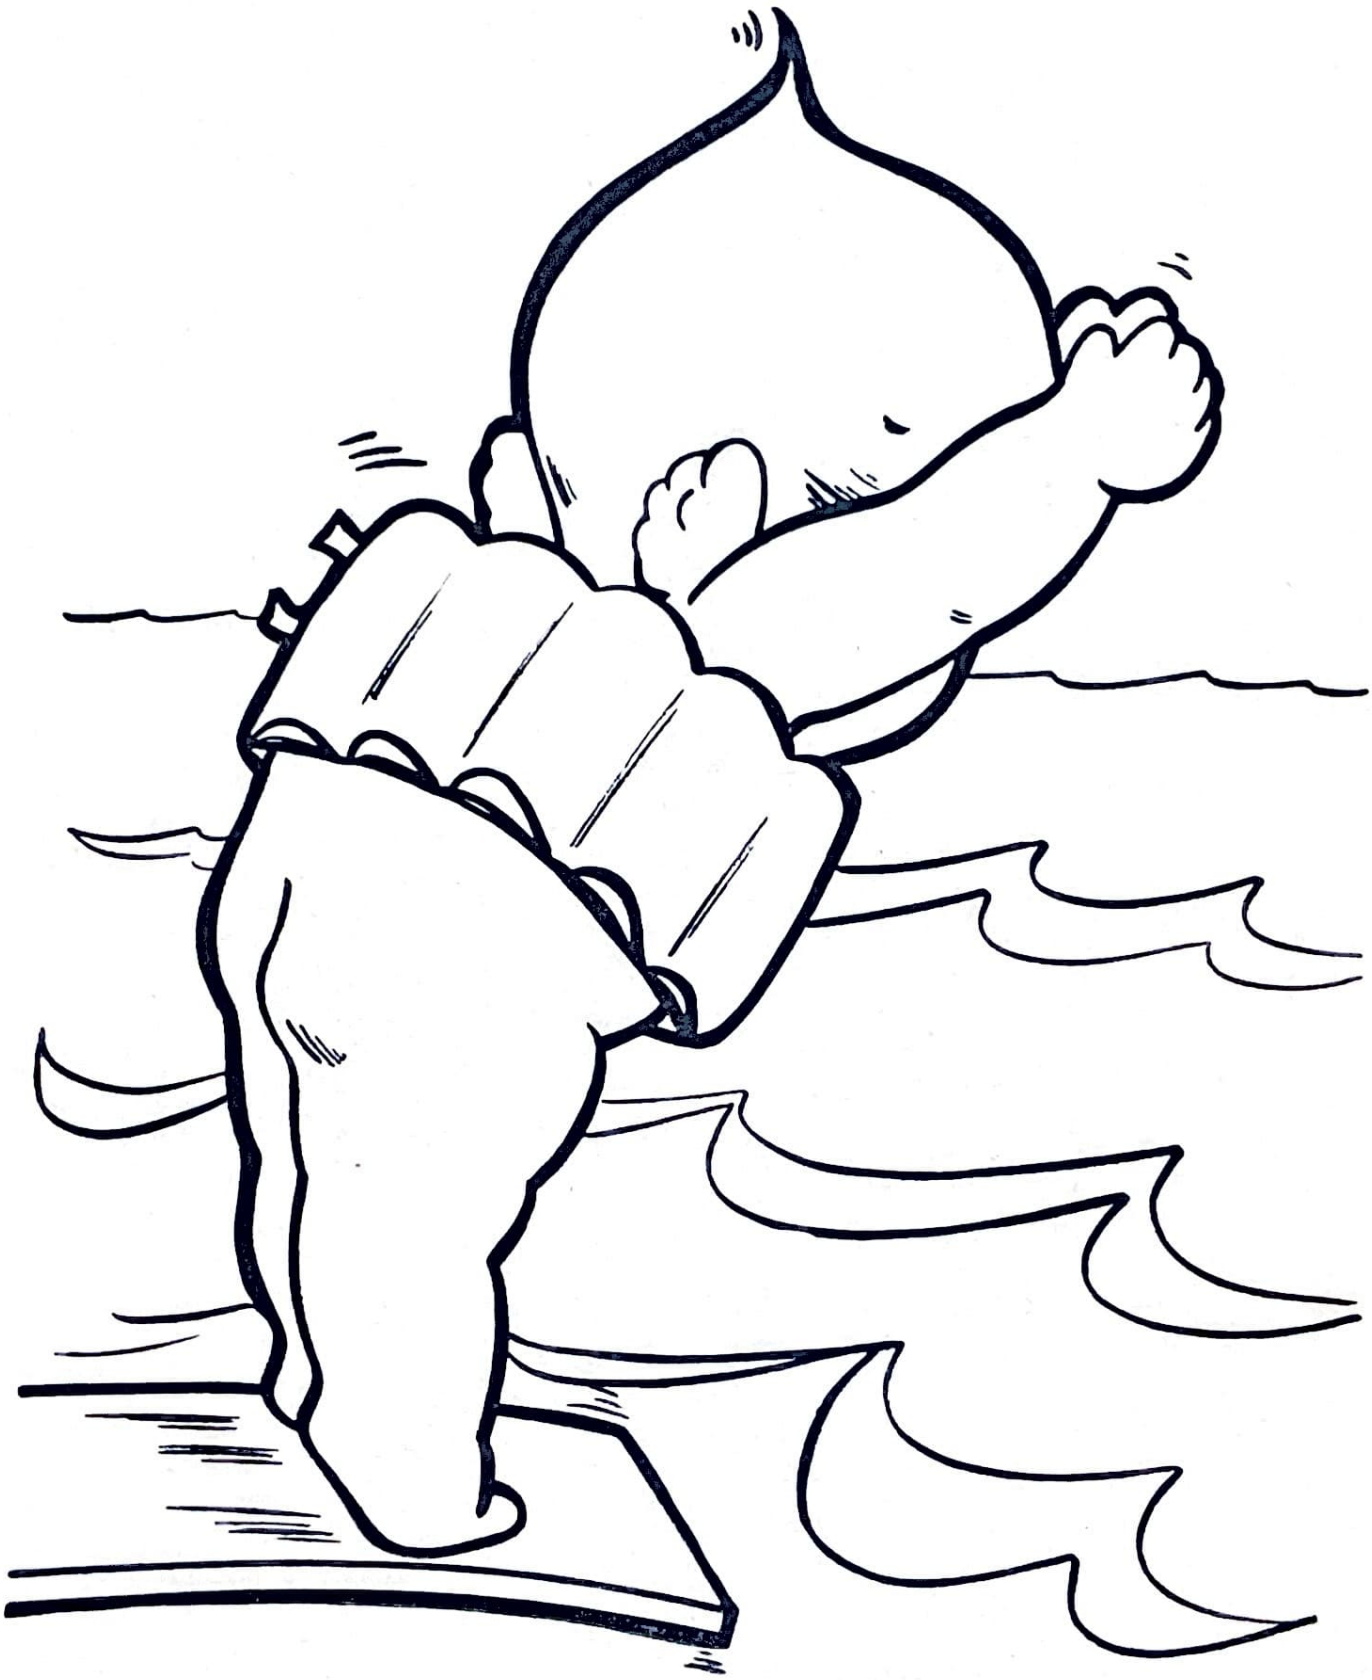


A Kewpie house



COOK

Some of Cook's goodies!

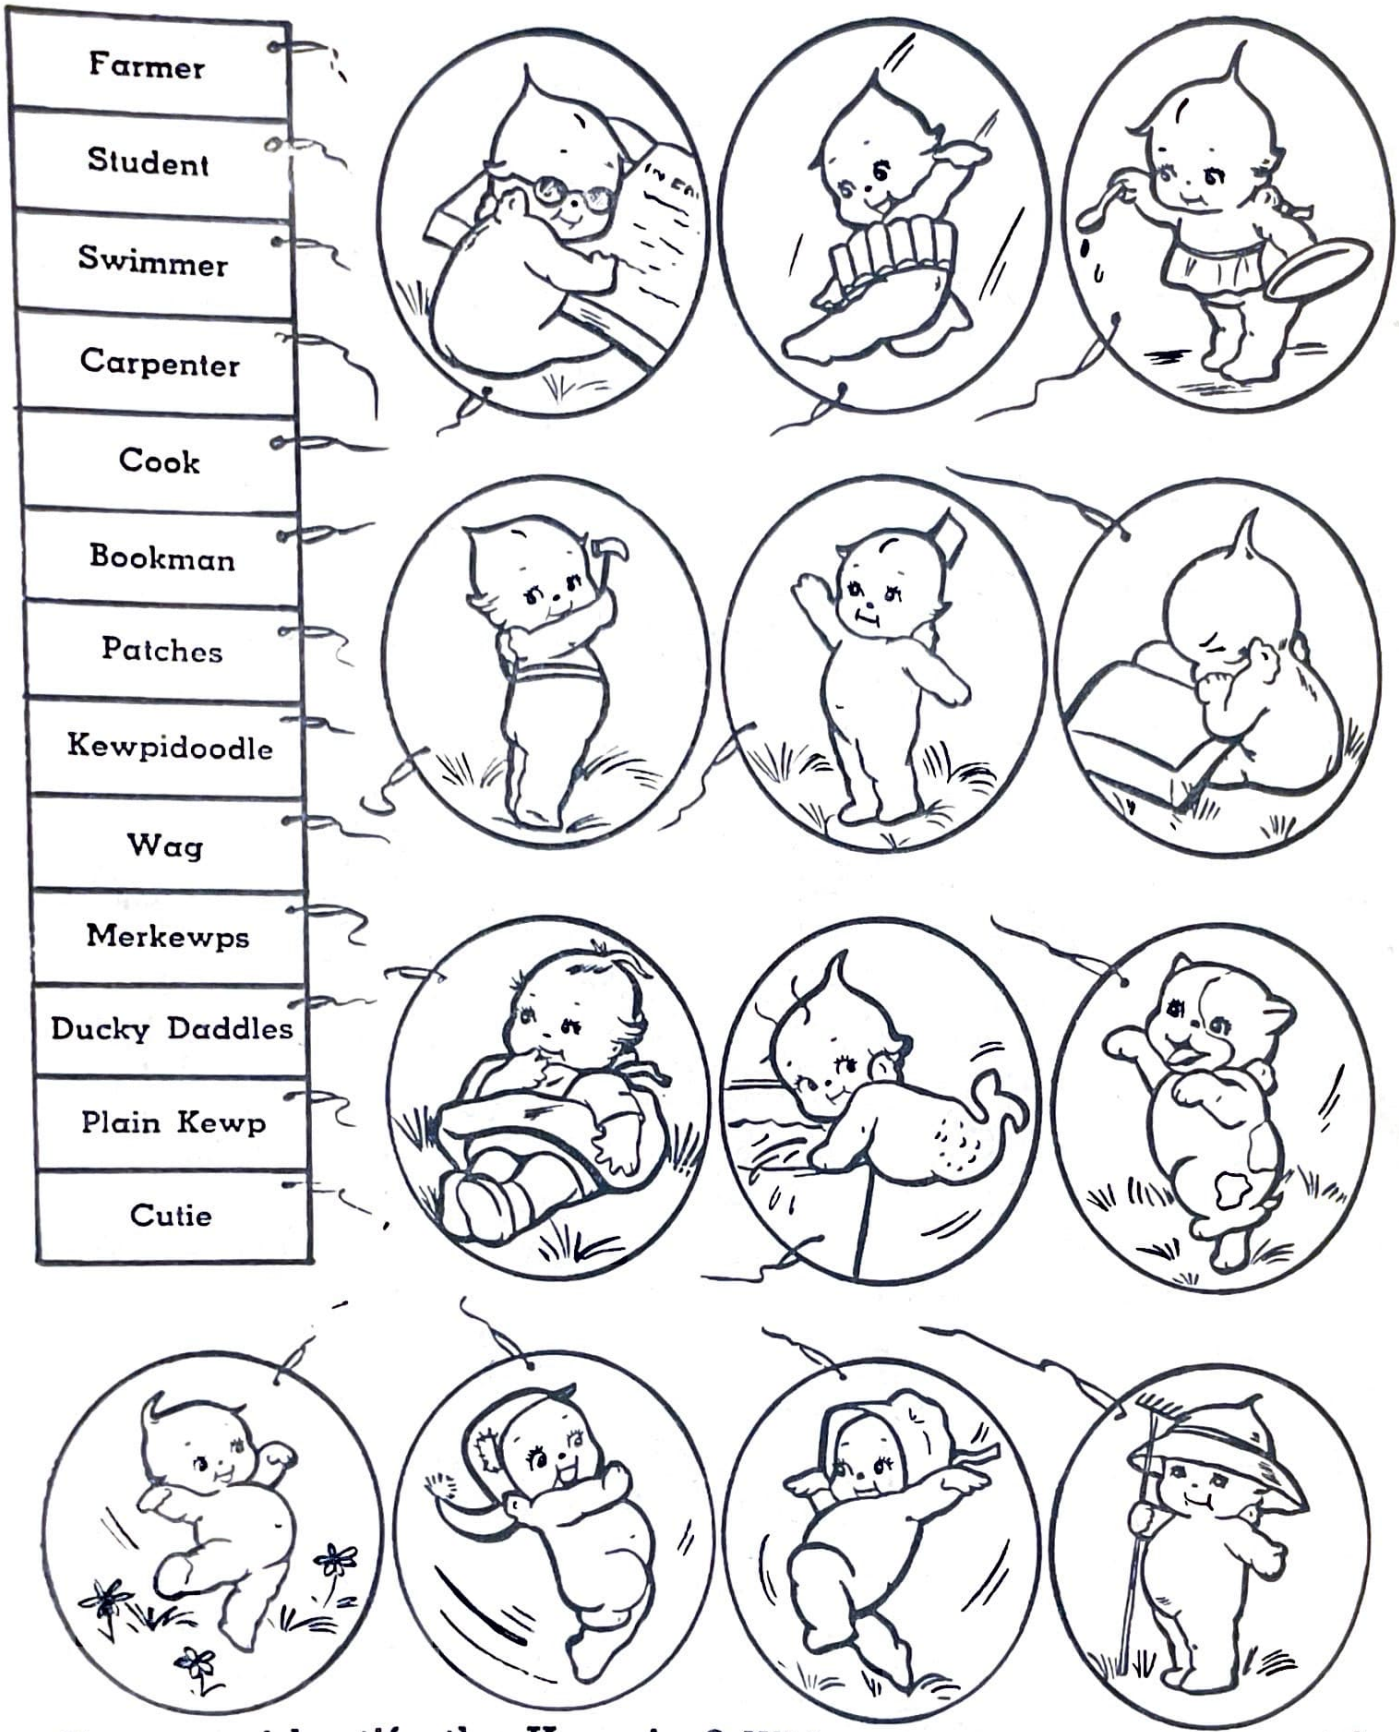


SWIMMER

MERKEWPS

DUCKY DADDLES is an orphan child adopted by the Kewpies.

FARMER and CUTIE



Can you identify the Kewpies? With a pencil or crayon finish drawing the line from the name to the correct picture of the Kewpie.

THE Kewpies
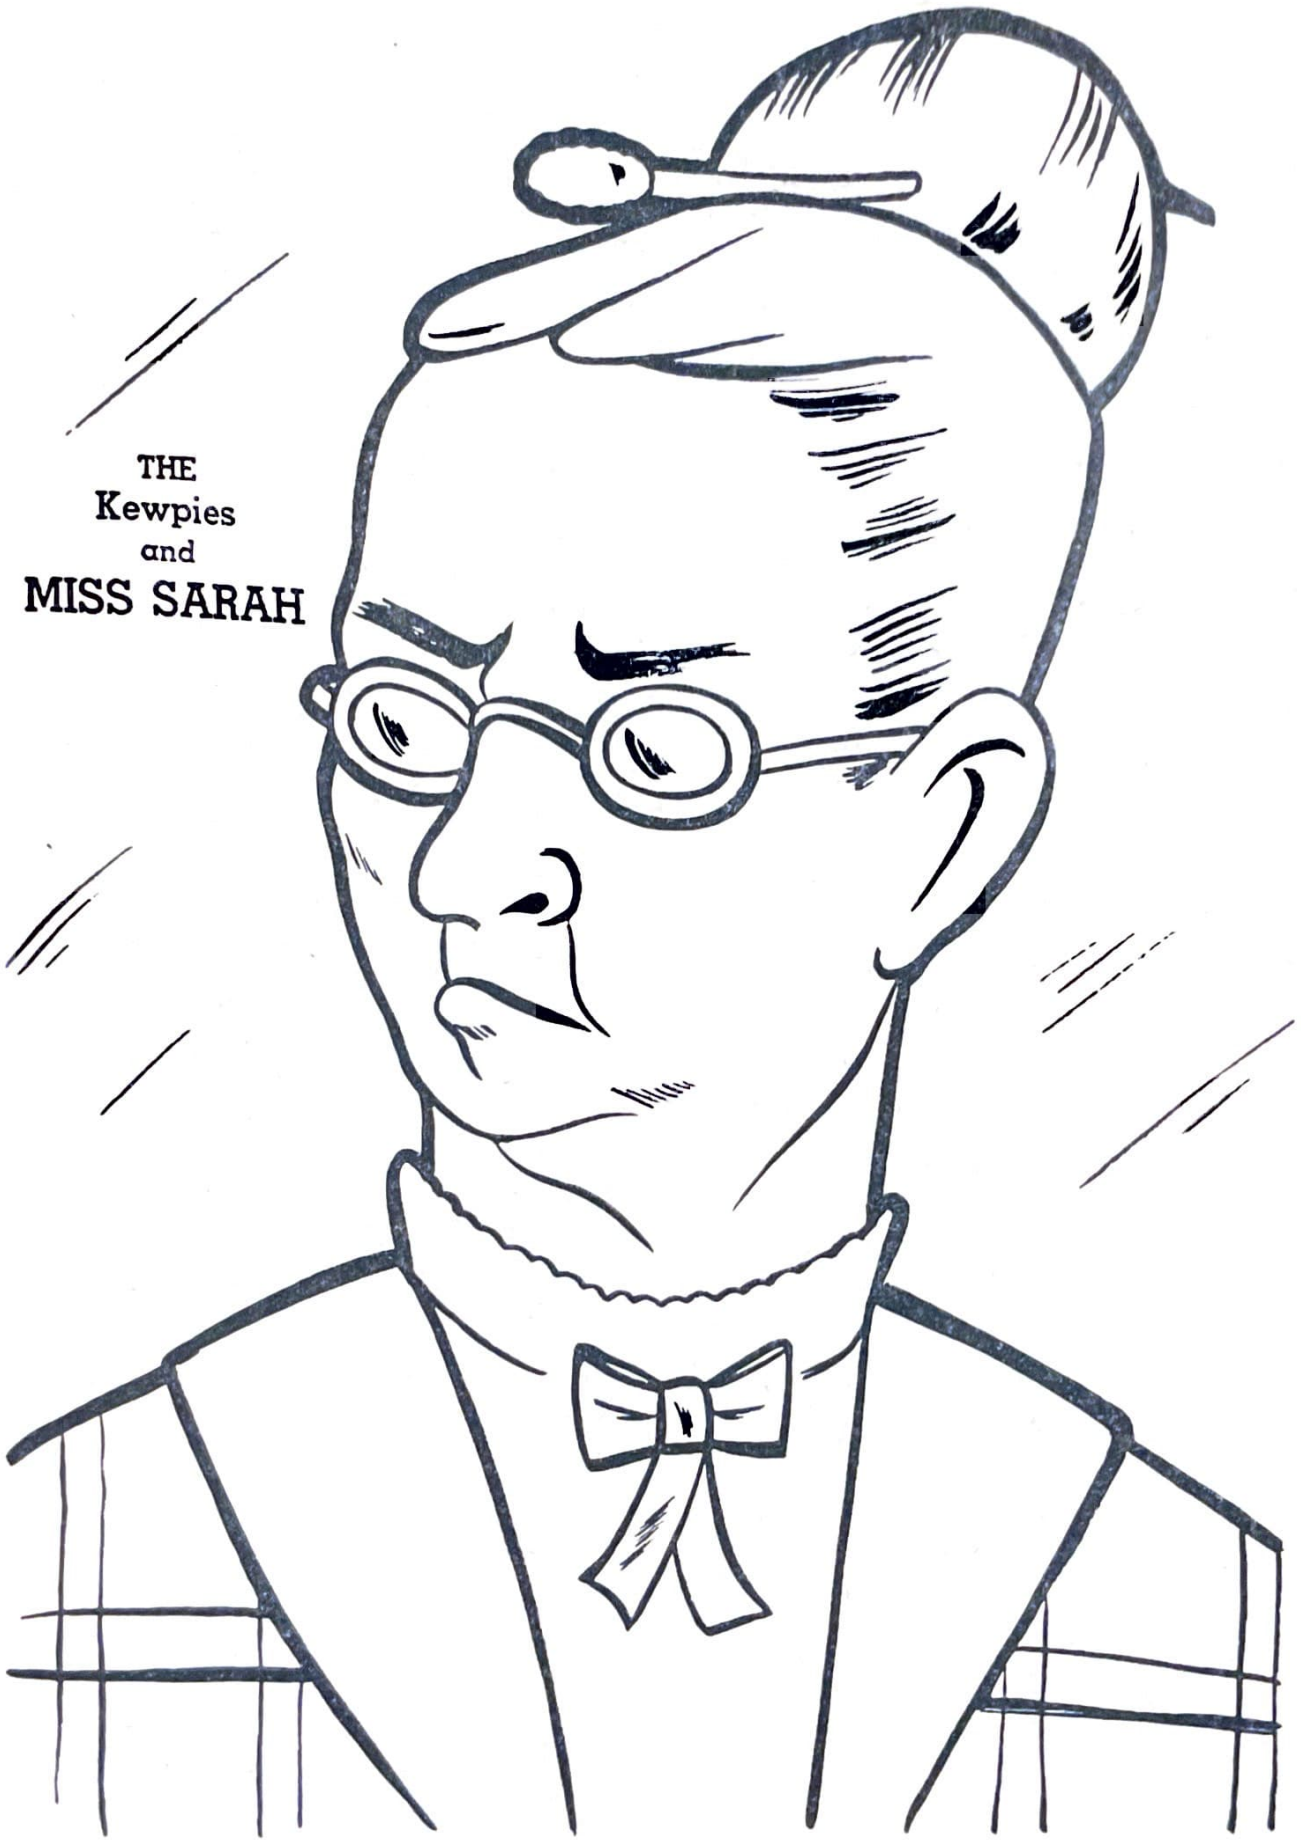
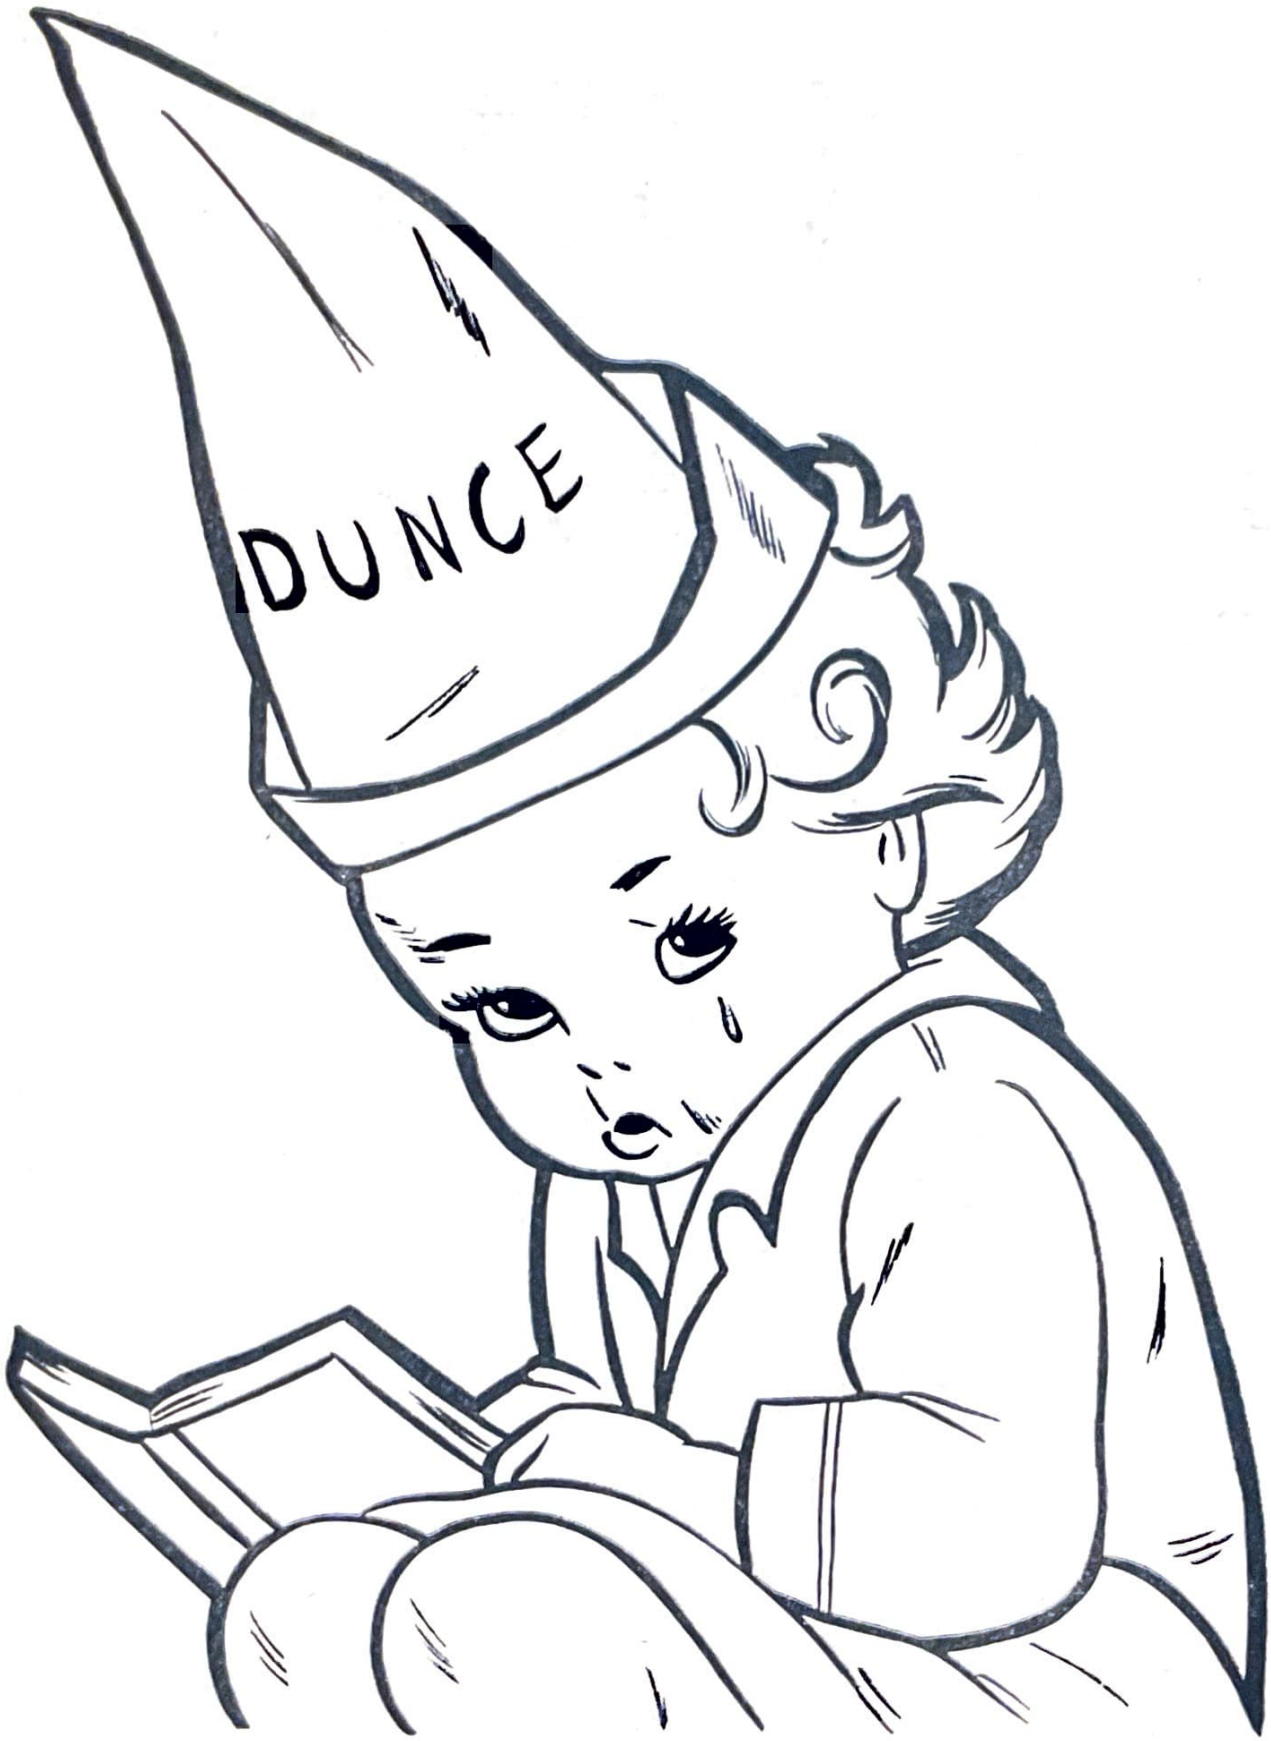
and
MISS SARAH

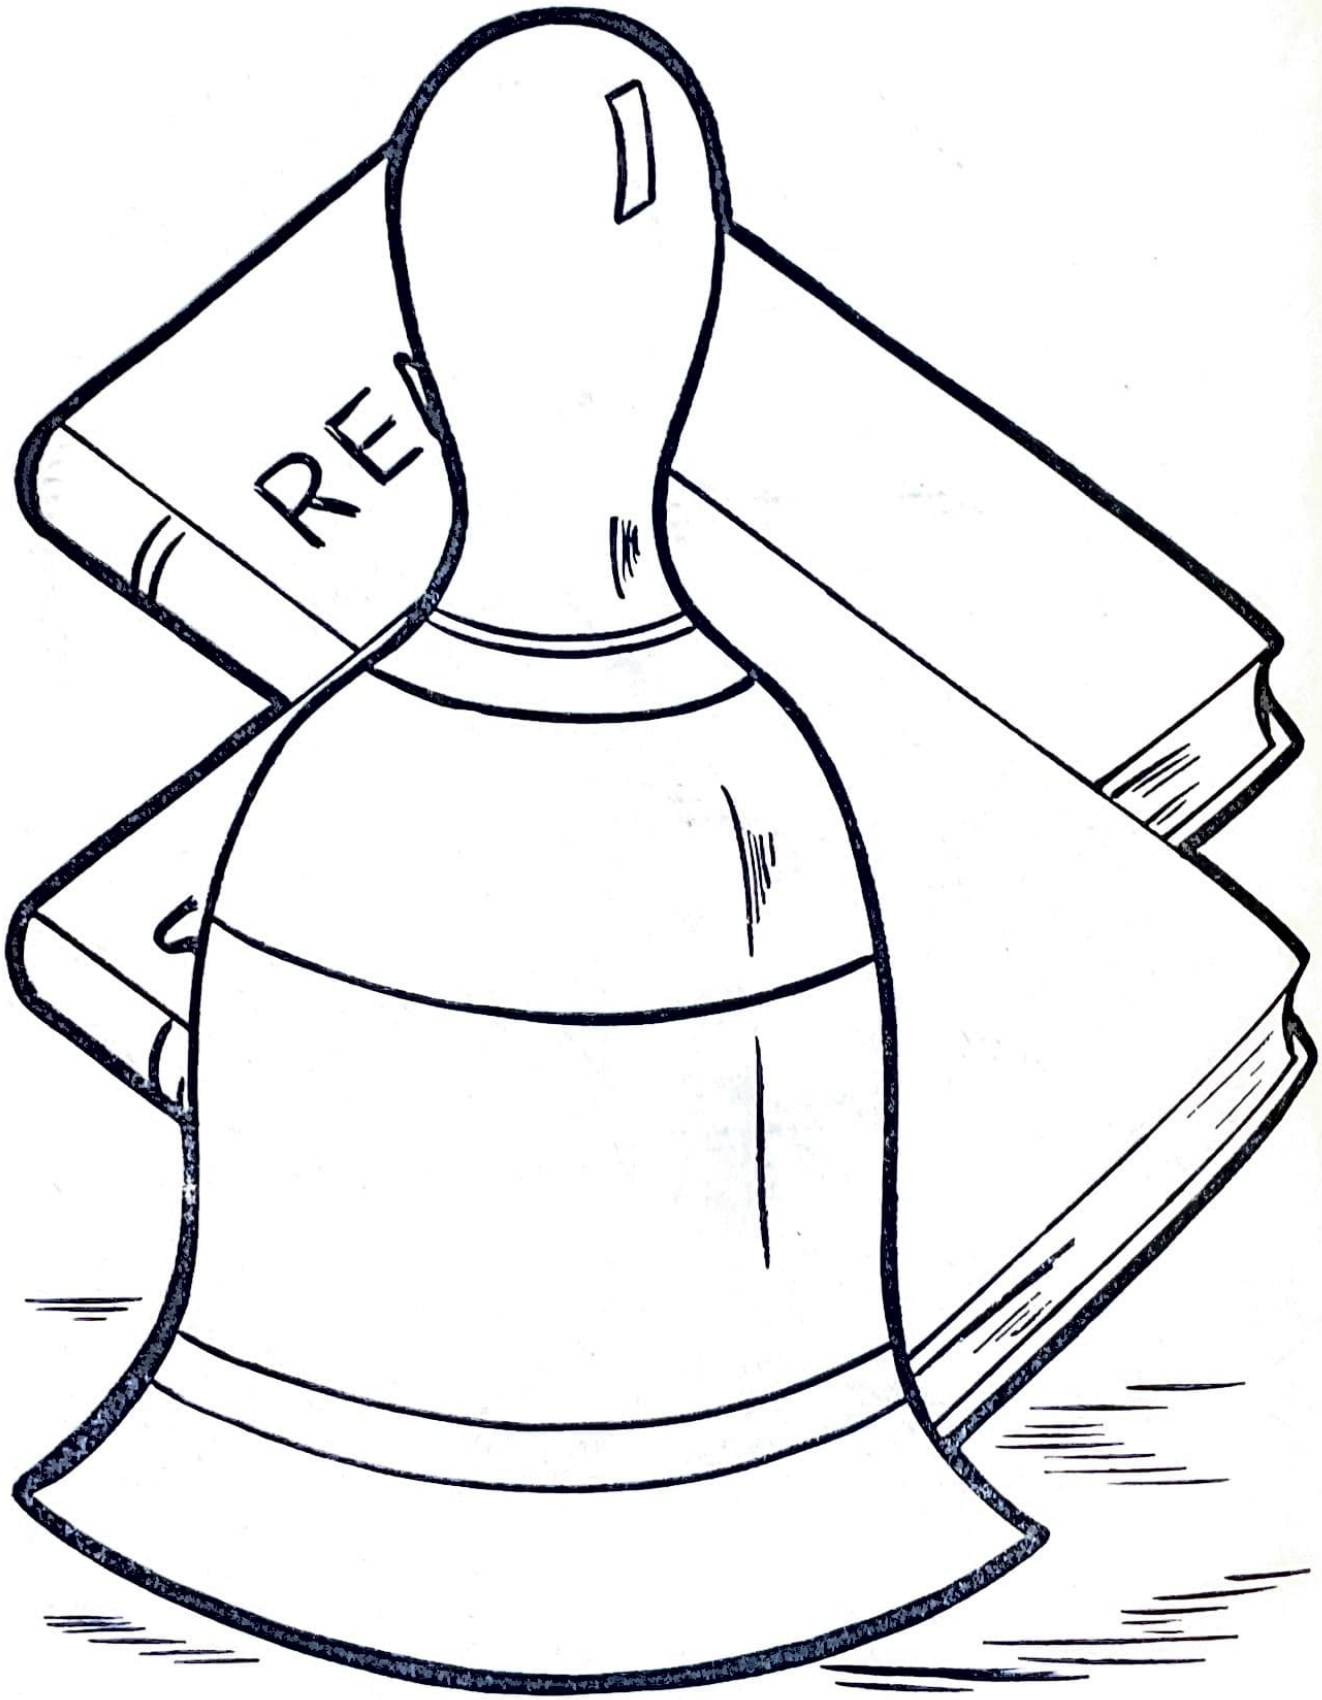


Miss Sarah is a very mean teacher.

Bouquets and apples do not please her.



She does not allow wriggling and giggling in her classes.



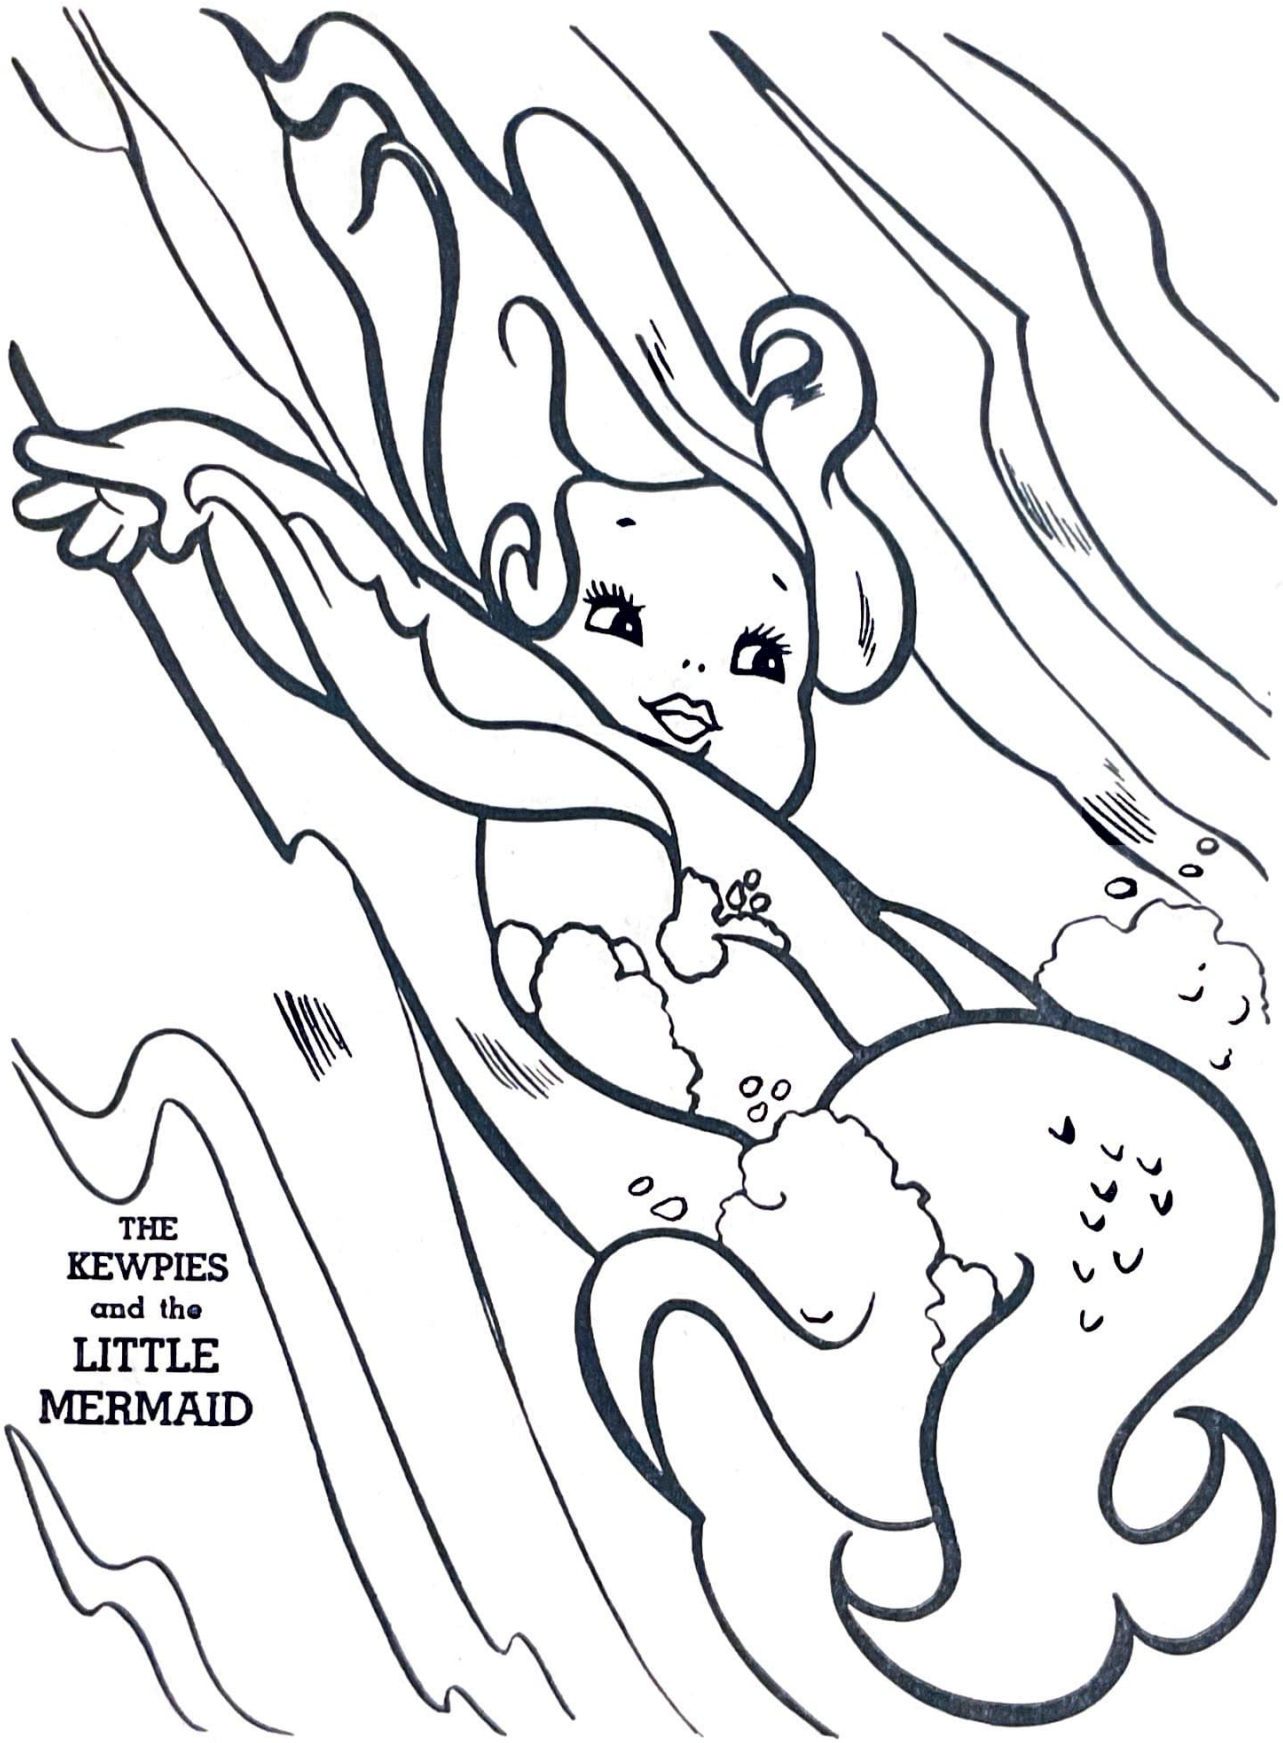
"We'll make this school a joyful place," says Wag.

Wag rings the bell and the Kewpies hurry to the school.

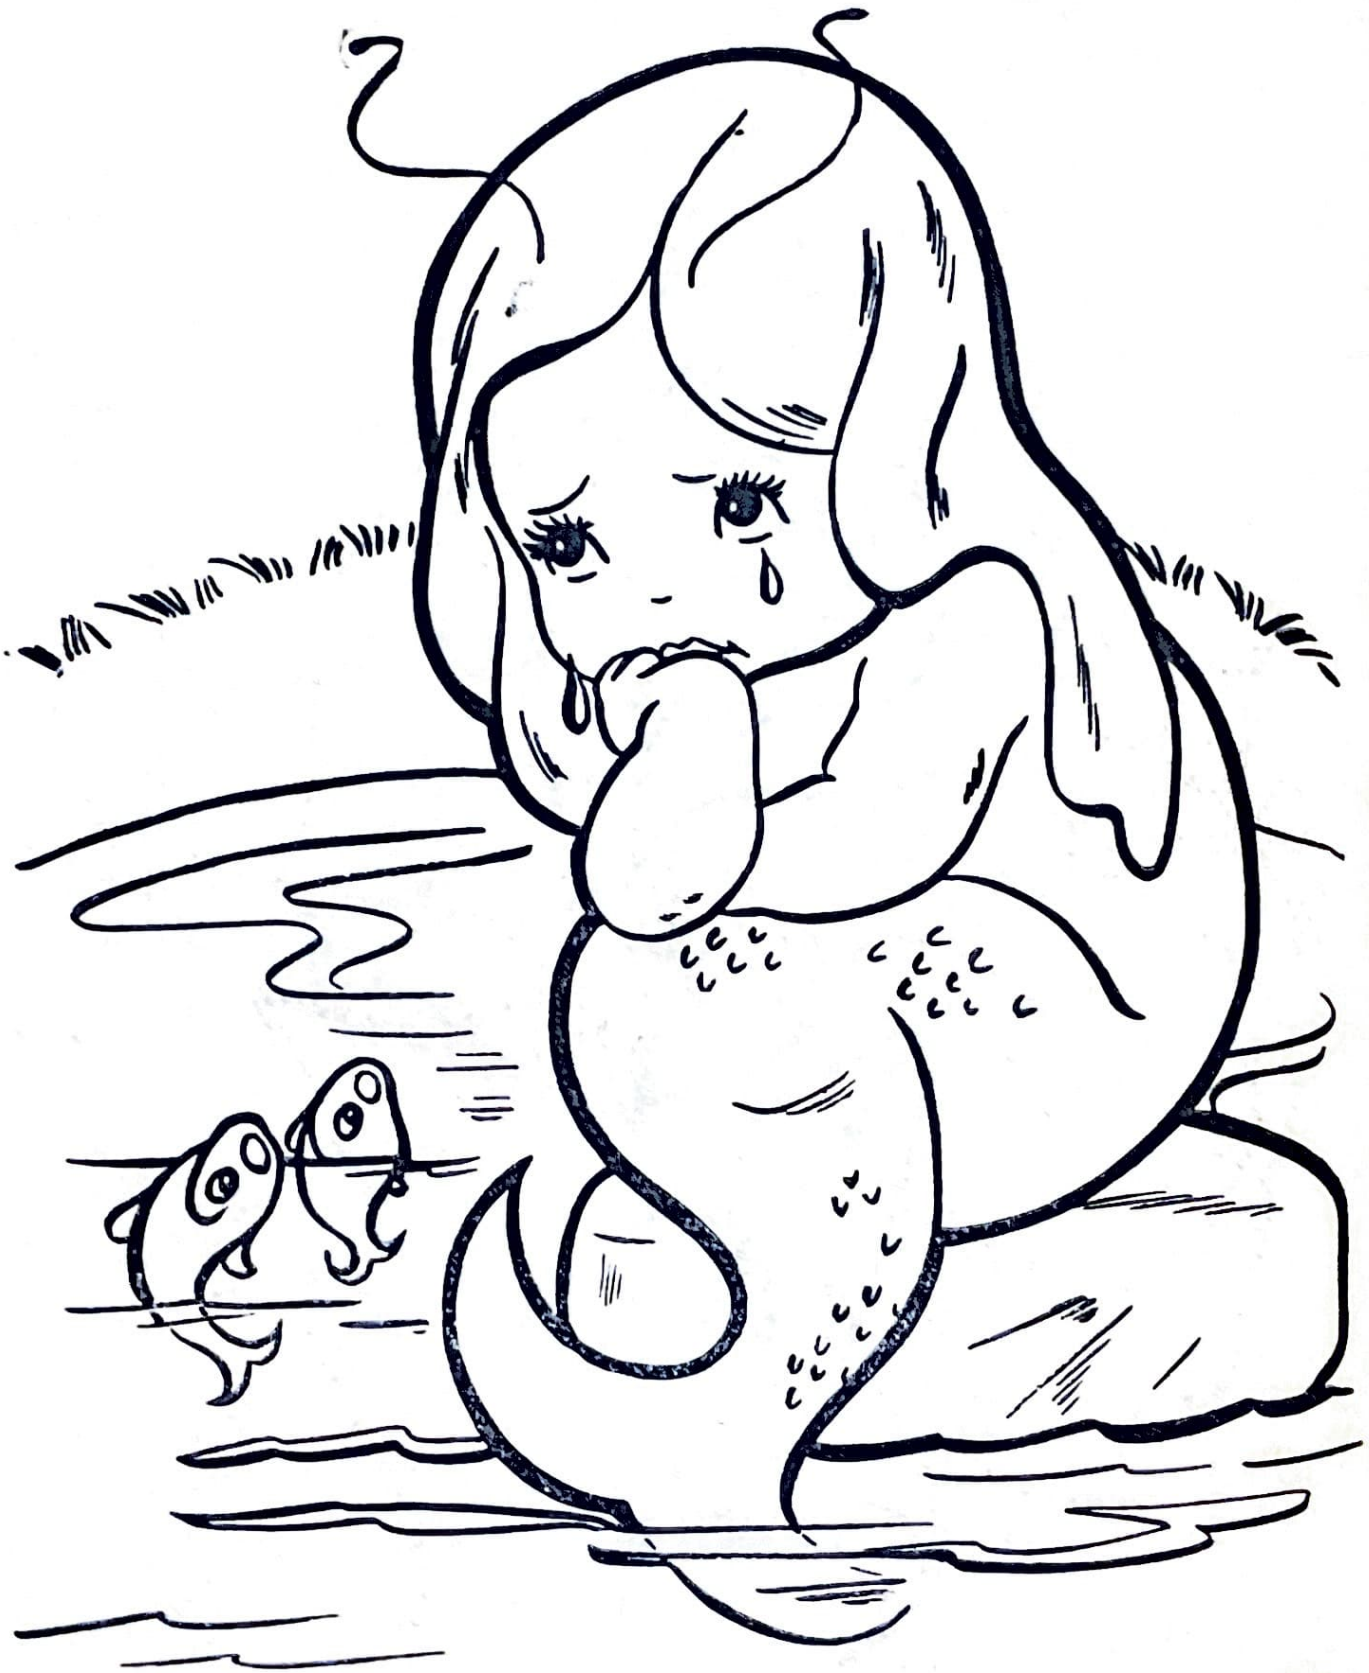
They think of ways to make Miss Sarah smile.

Miss Sarah is very happy with the lovely Valentines.

Miss Sarah becomes a sunny funny teacher.



A Little Mermaid is swept away from her home in the sea.

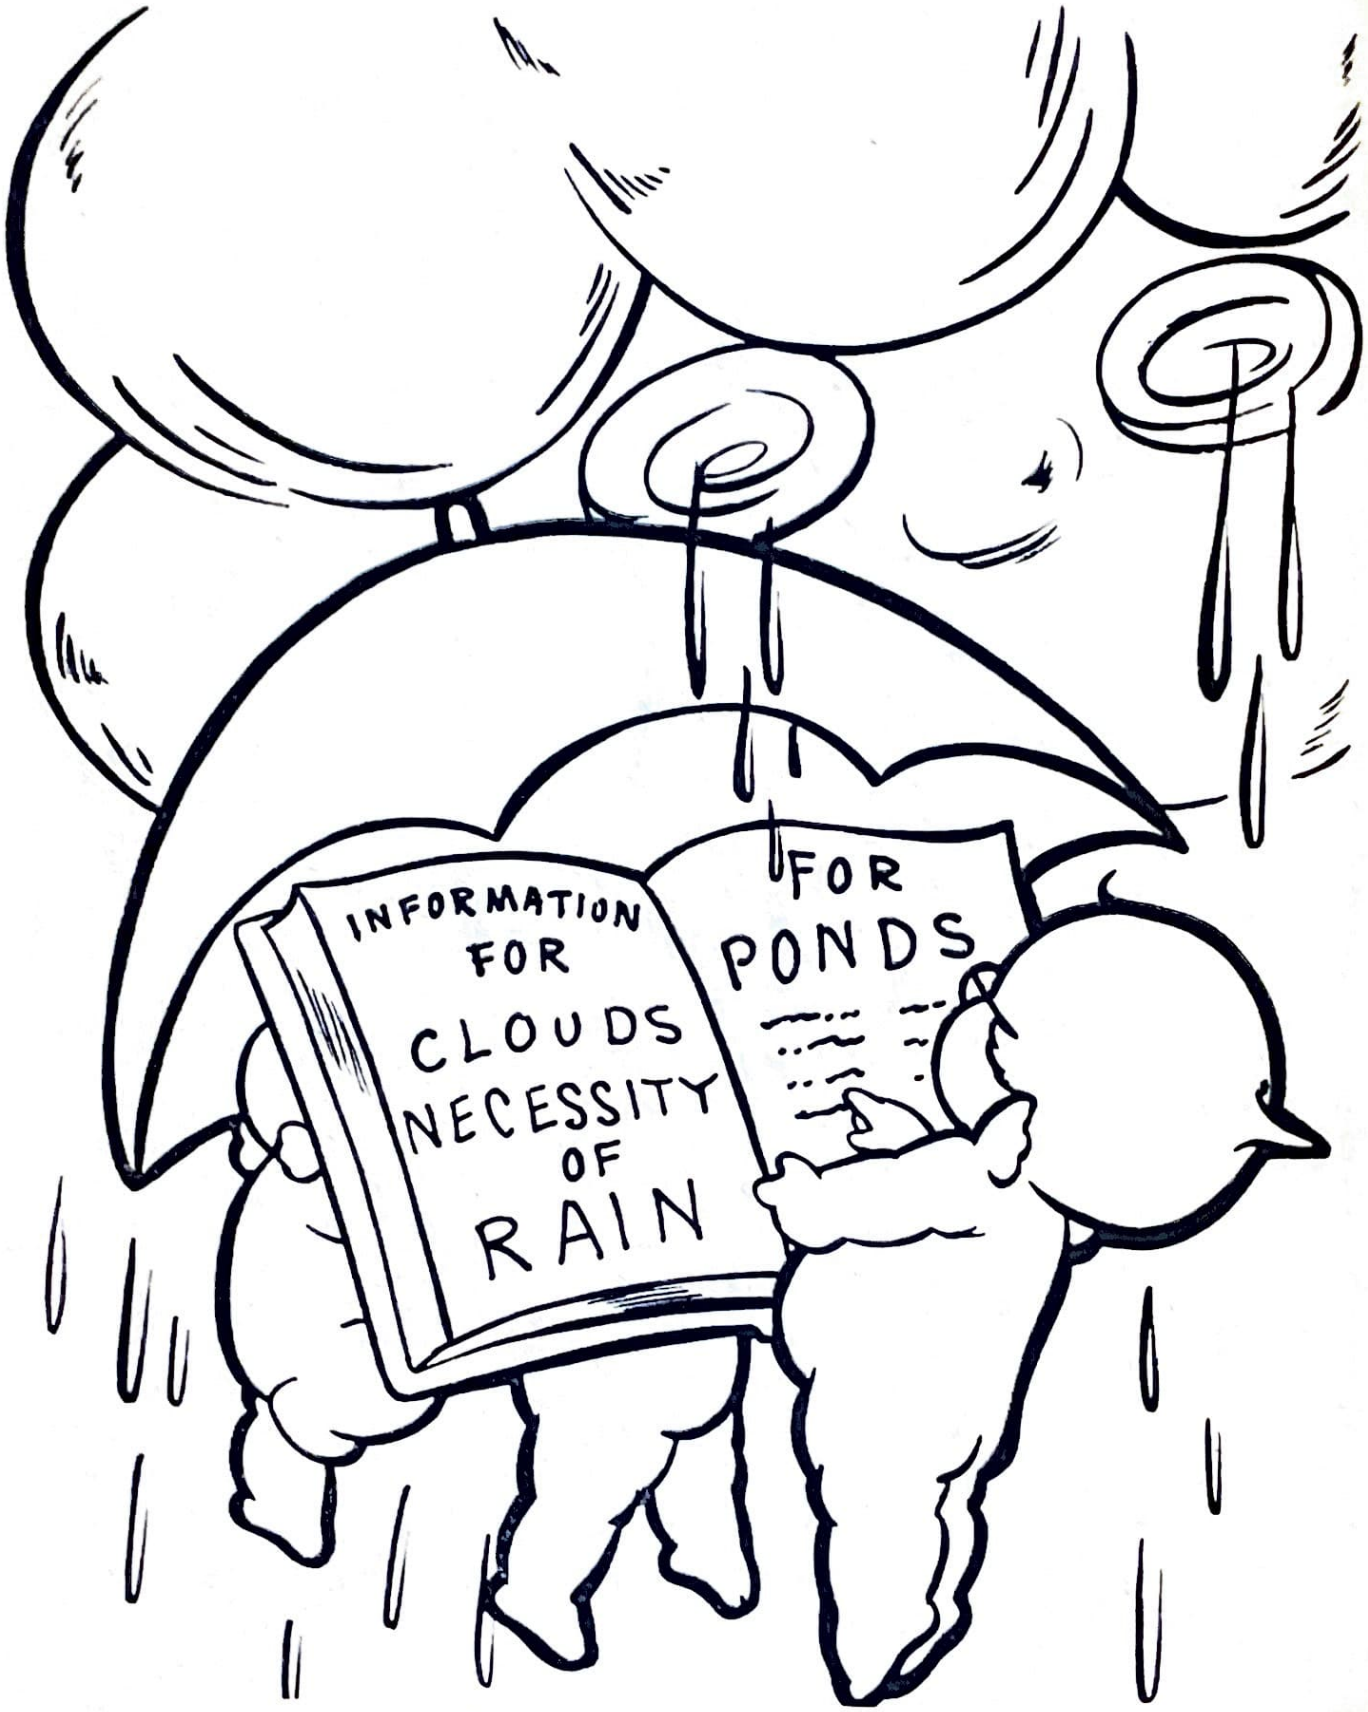


She finds a home in a pretty little pond but there is no rain for months and months and the pond gets smaller and smaller.

The Little Mermaid is very sad. There is no way back to her beautiful Mermother in the sea. The Kewpies decide to help her.

They try many ways to keep the pond from drying up.

They can't carry enough water to save the lovely Little Mermaid and her friends in the pond. Something must be done quickly.



The Kewpies visit the clouds, who cry so hard when they hear about the Little Mermaid that they turn the dry pond into a river,

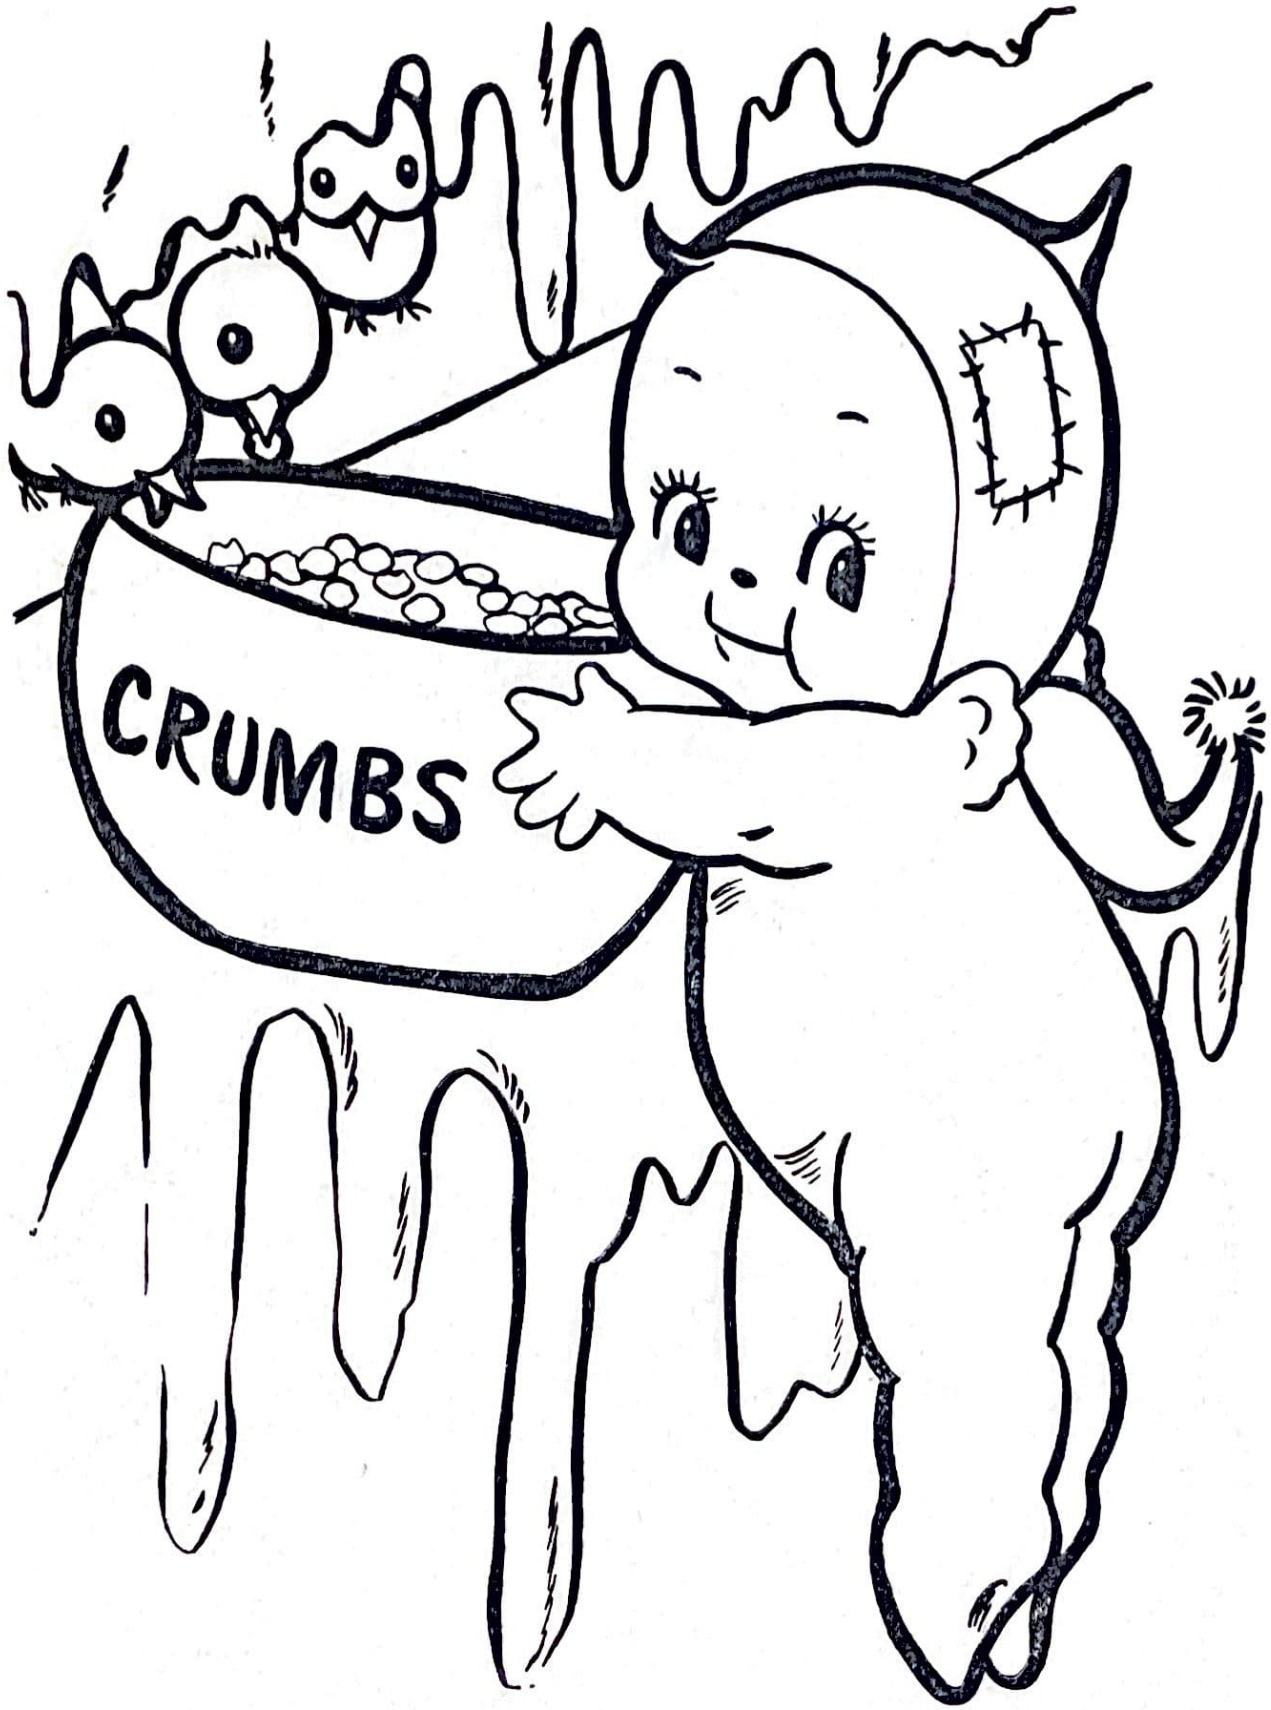
The Little Mermaid happily rides out to sea where she finds her beautiful Mermother.

THE KEWPIES AND THE BLIZZARD

Ducky Daddles has turned Kewpish enough to be perfectly cozy in the very coldest blizzard.

Jack Frost drapes the world in icicles.

Children shiver in their rooms. The kind little Kewpies try to keep everyone warm.



Patches feeds the half frozen birds.

Farmer brings coal to the chilly homes.

Cutie helps the folks with coughs and colds.

"Boots, anyone?" asks Swimmer.

The deserted farm is very run down until the Kewpies go to work.

Farmer rakes the yard. Carpenter does some hammering.

The Kewps plant a large garden.

They chase the grasshoppers from the farm.

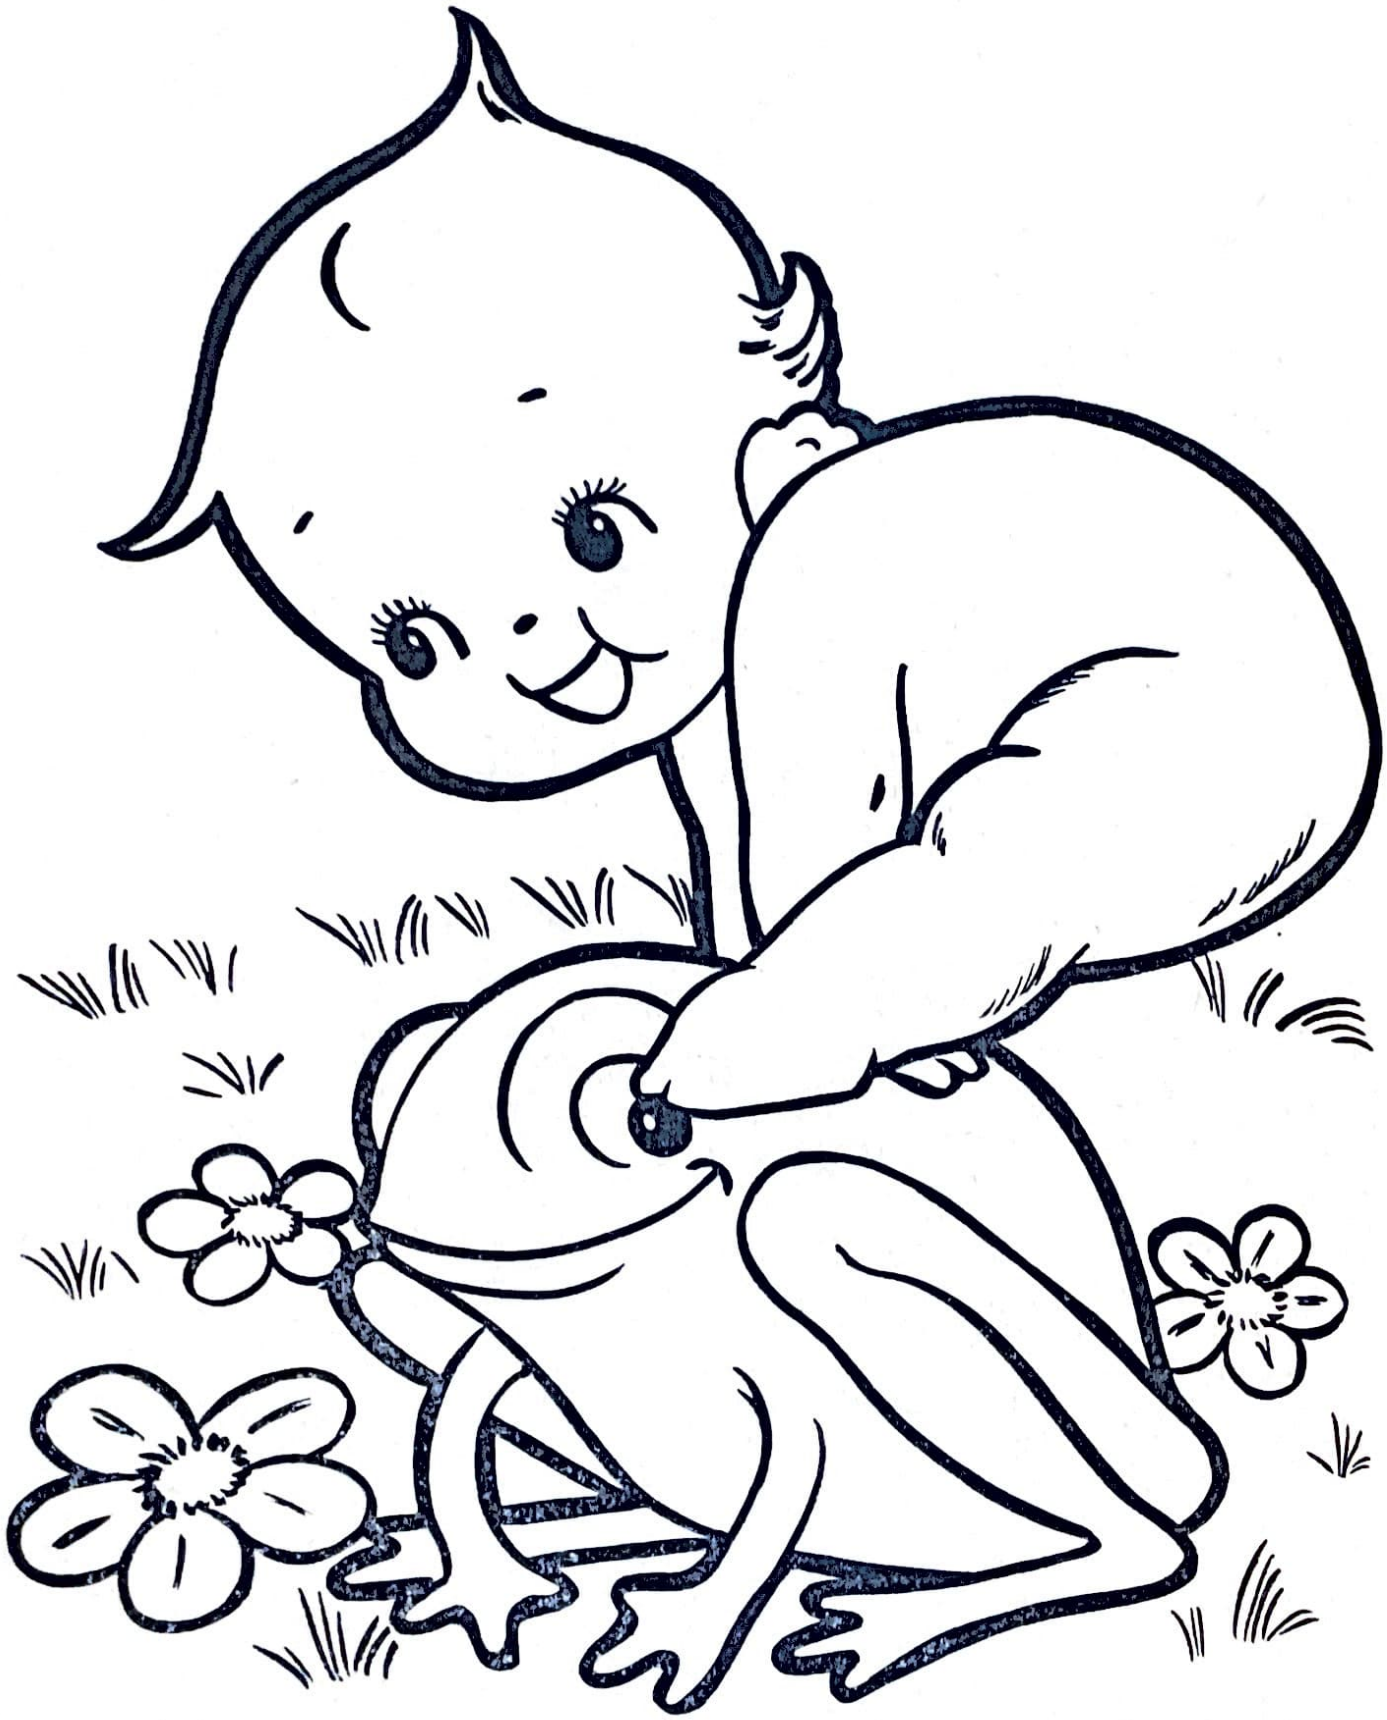
The Kewpies are very successful with their produce.

Artie hangs happily from a chandelier.

Artie gaily eats his bread and jam.

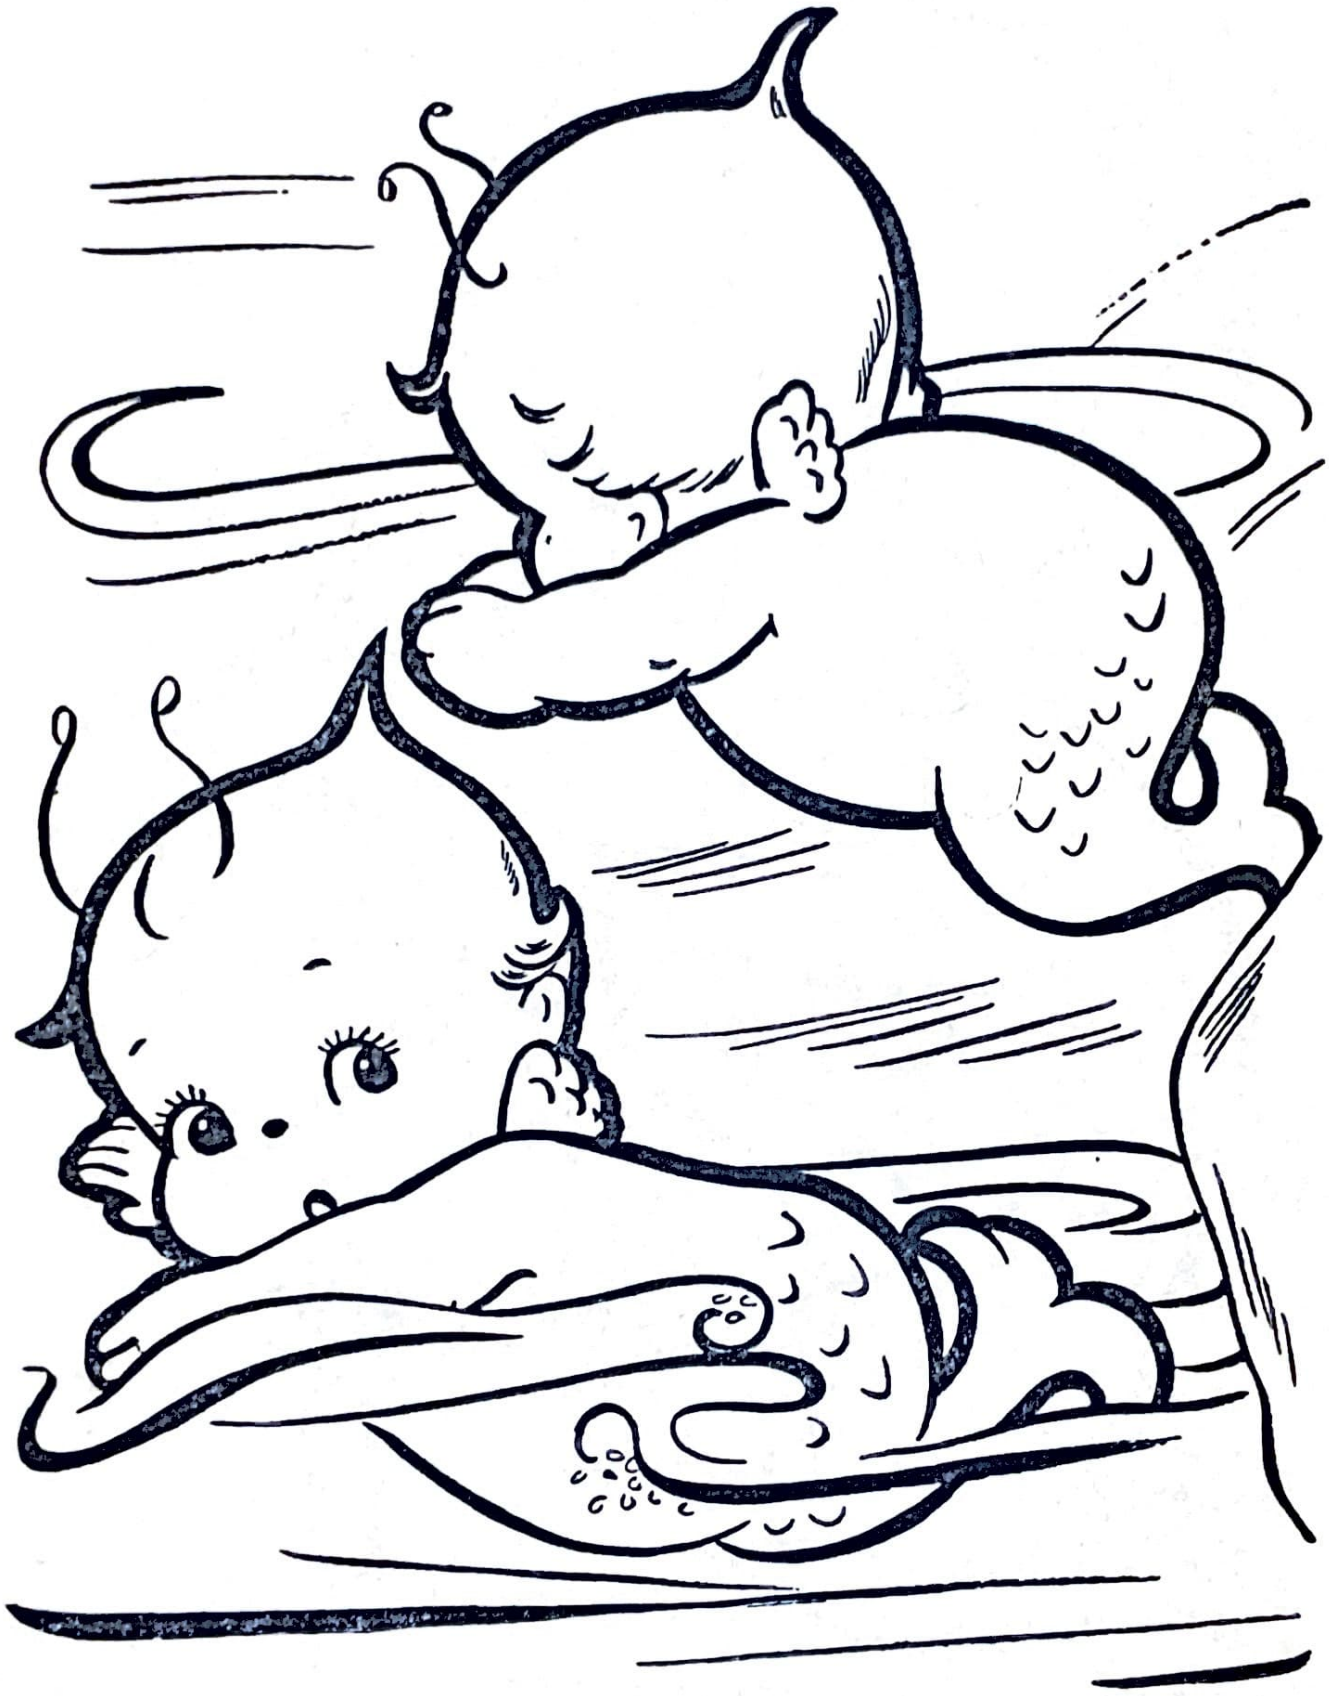
Doctors examine Artie to discover the source of his activity.

The Kewpies even make a study of activity.

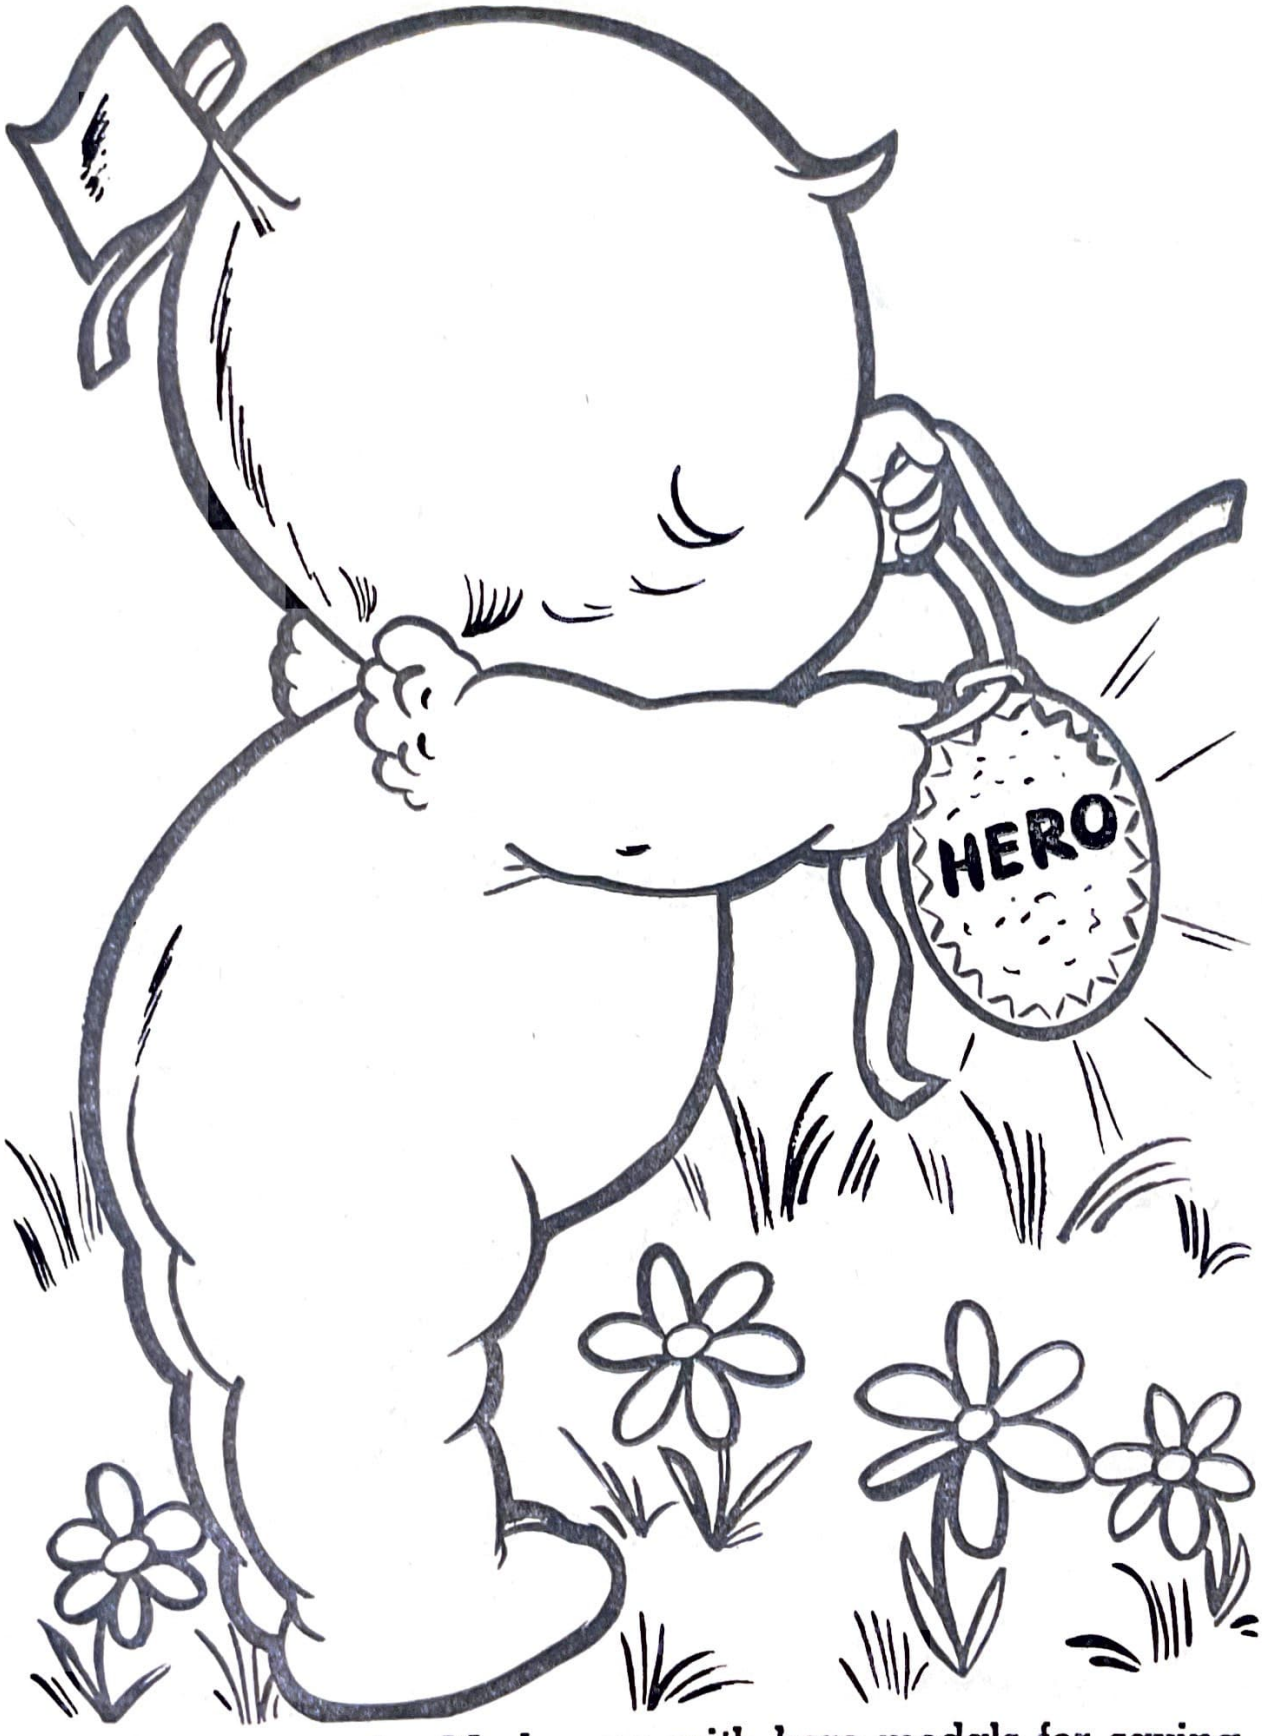


They do not want to be outdone by Artie.

One of Artie's activities is to sail his raft. The water is rough and the raft goes under.



The Merkewps see what has happened and jump bravely in.



Wag decorates the Merkewps with hero medals for saving Artie's life.

THE Kewpies and DUSTY DAN

The Kewpies are quite annoyed to find everything looking so dusty.

Some Kewps are startled by the simple, direct methods used.

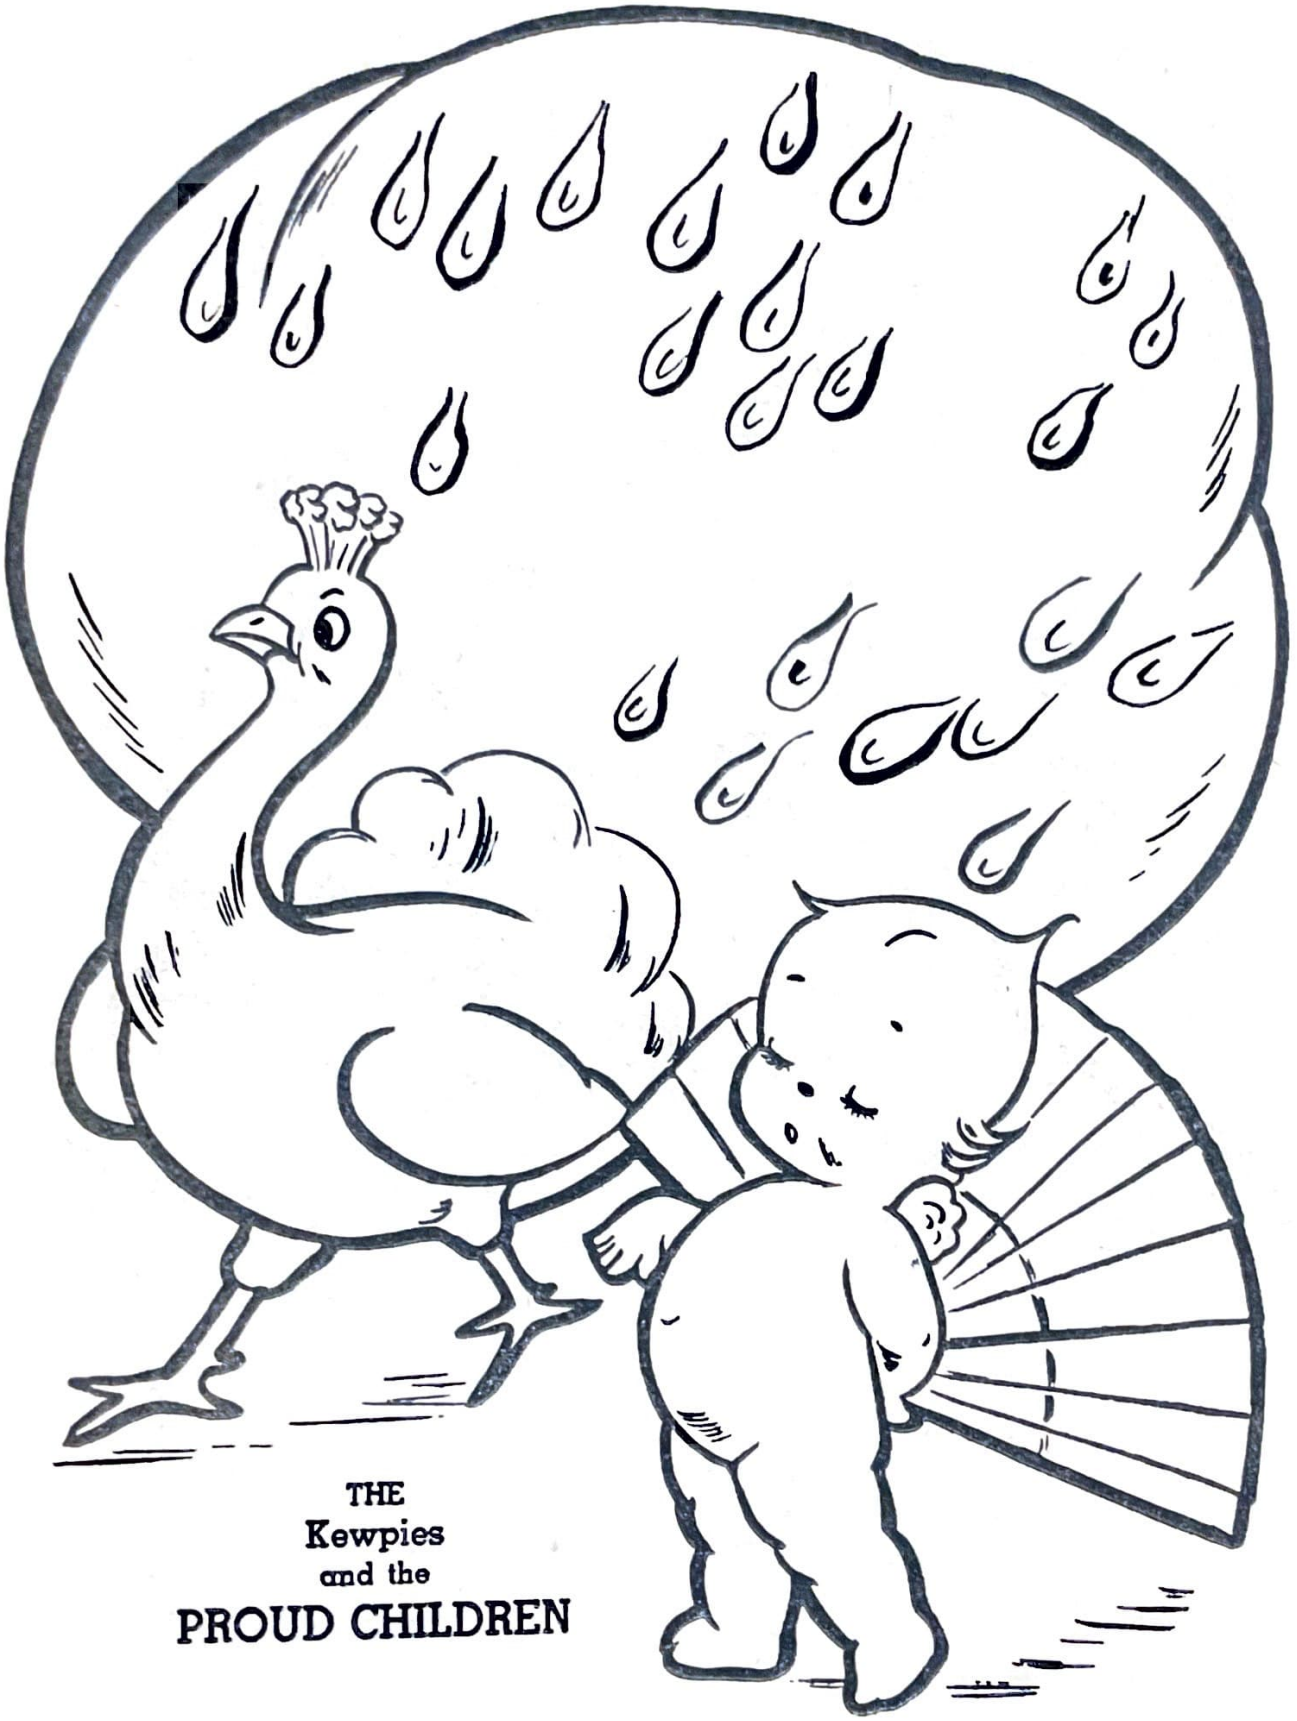
This is the first sponging certain frogs have ever had.

While cleaning some rocks, the Kewps find Dusty Dan taking a nap.

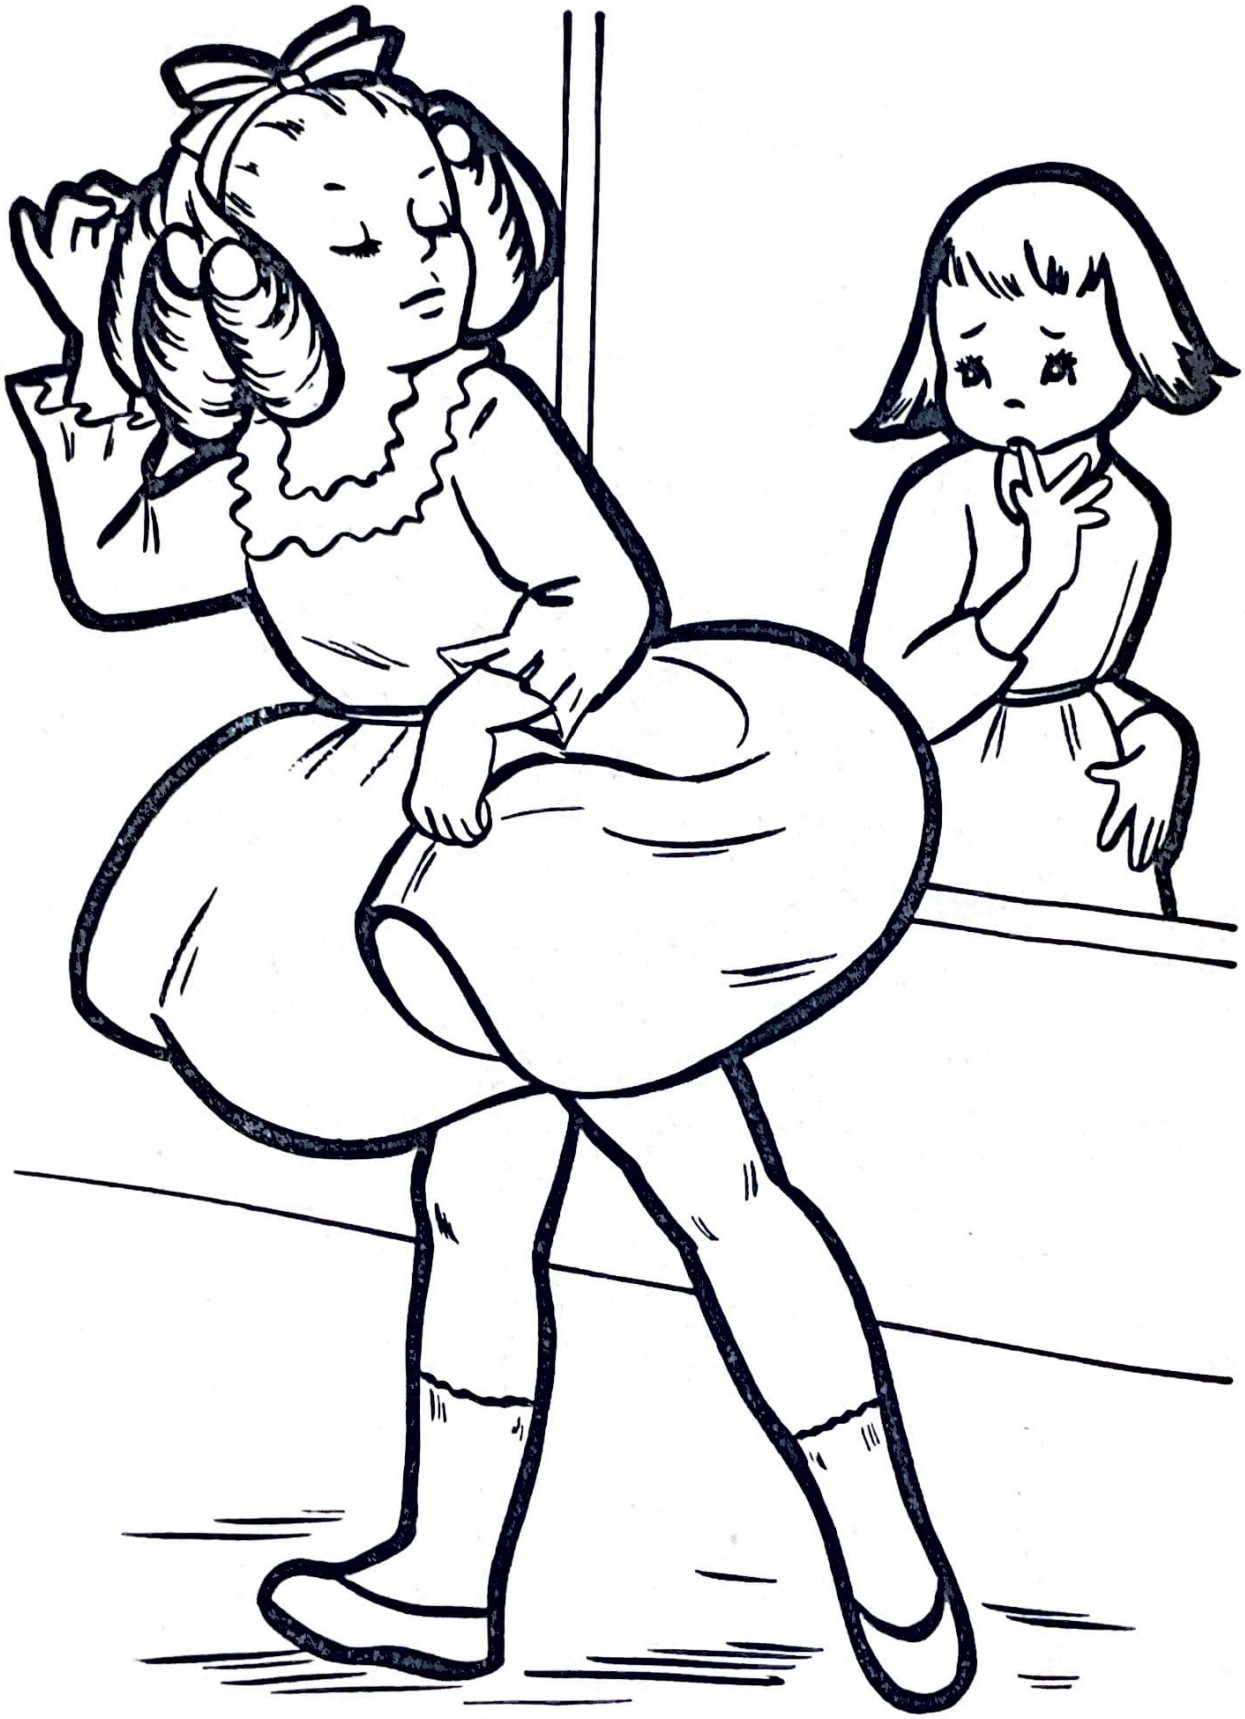
Dusty Dan objects to the use of soap and water.

He dislikes exercise, too, but he makes a splendid run to get away from the cleaning-up Kewps.

After being caught and cleaned, Dusty Dan seems to enjoy it.

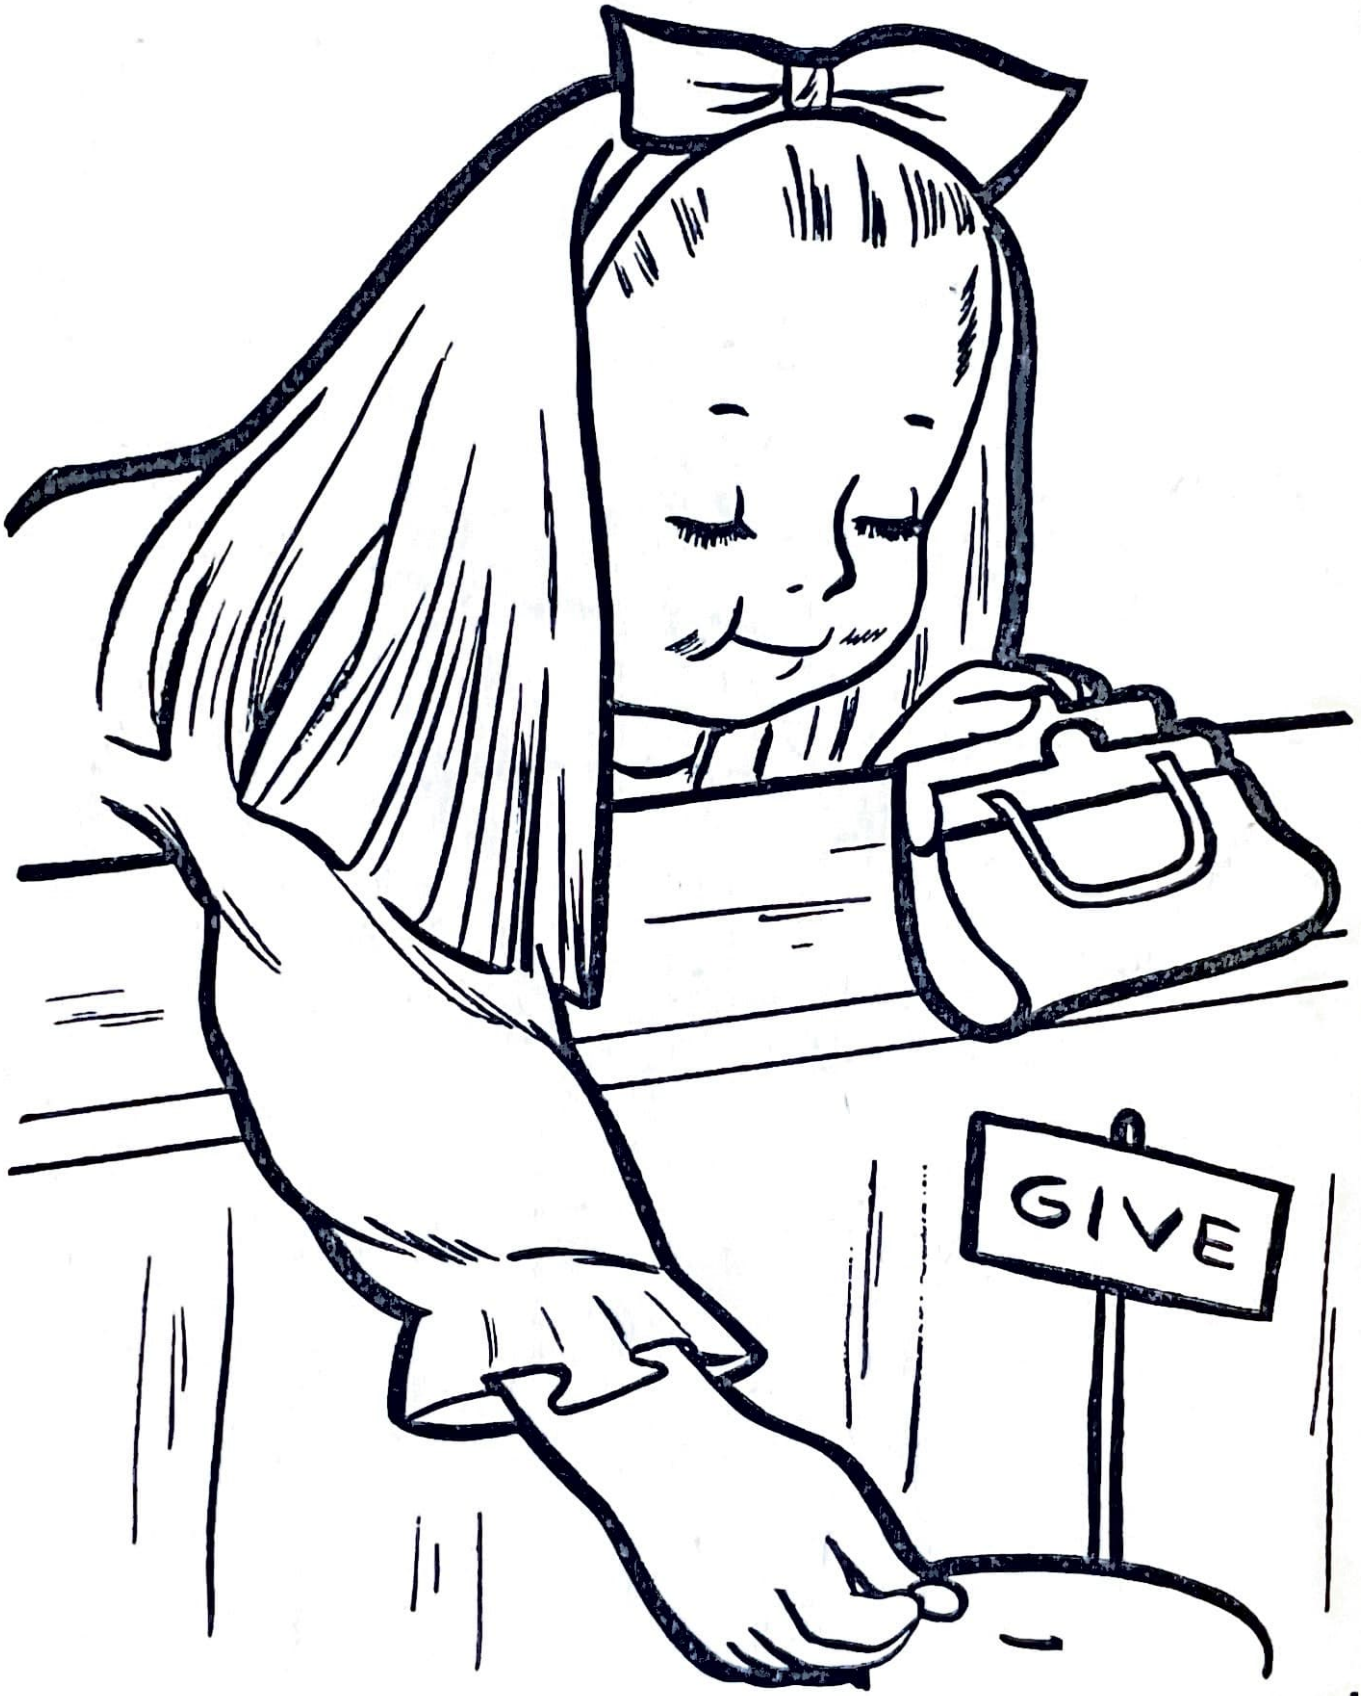


The Kewpies notice there is entirely too much pride in the world.

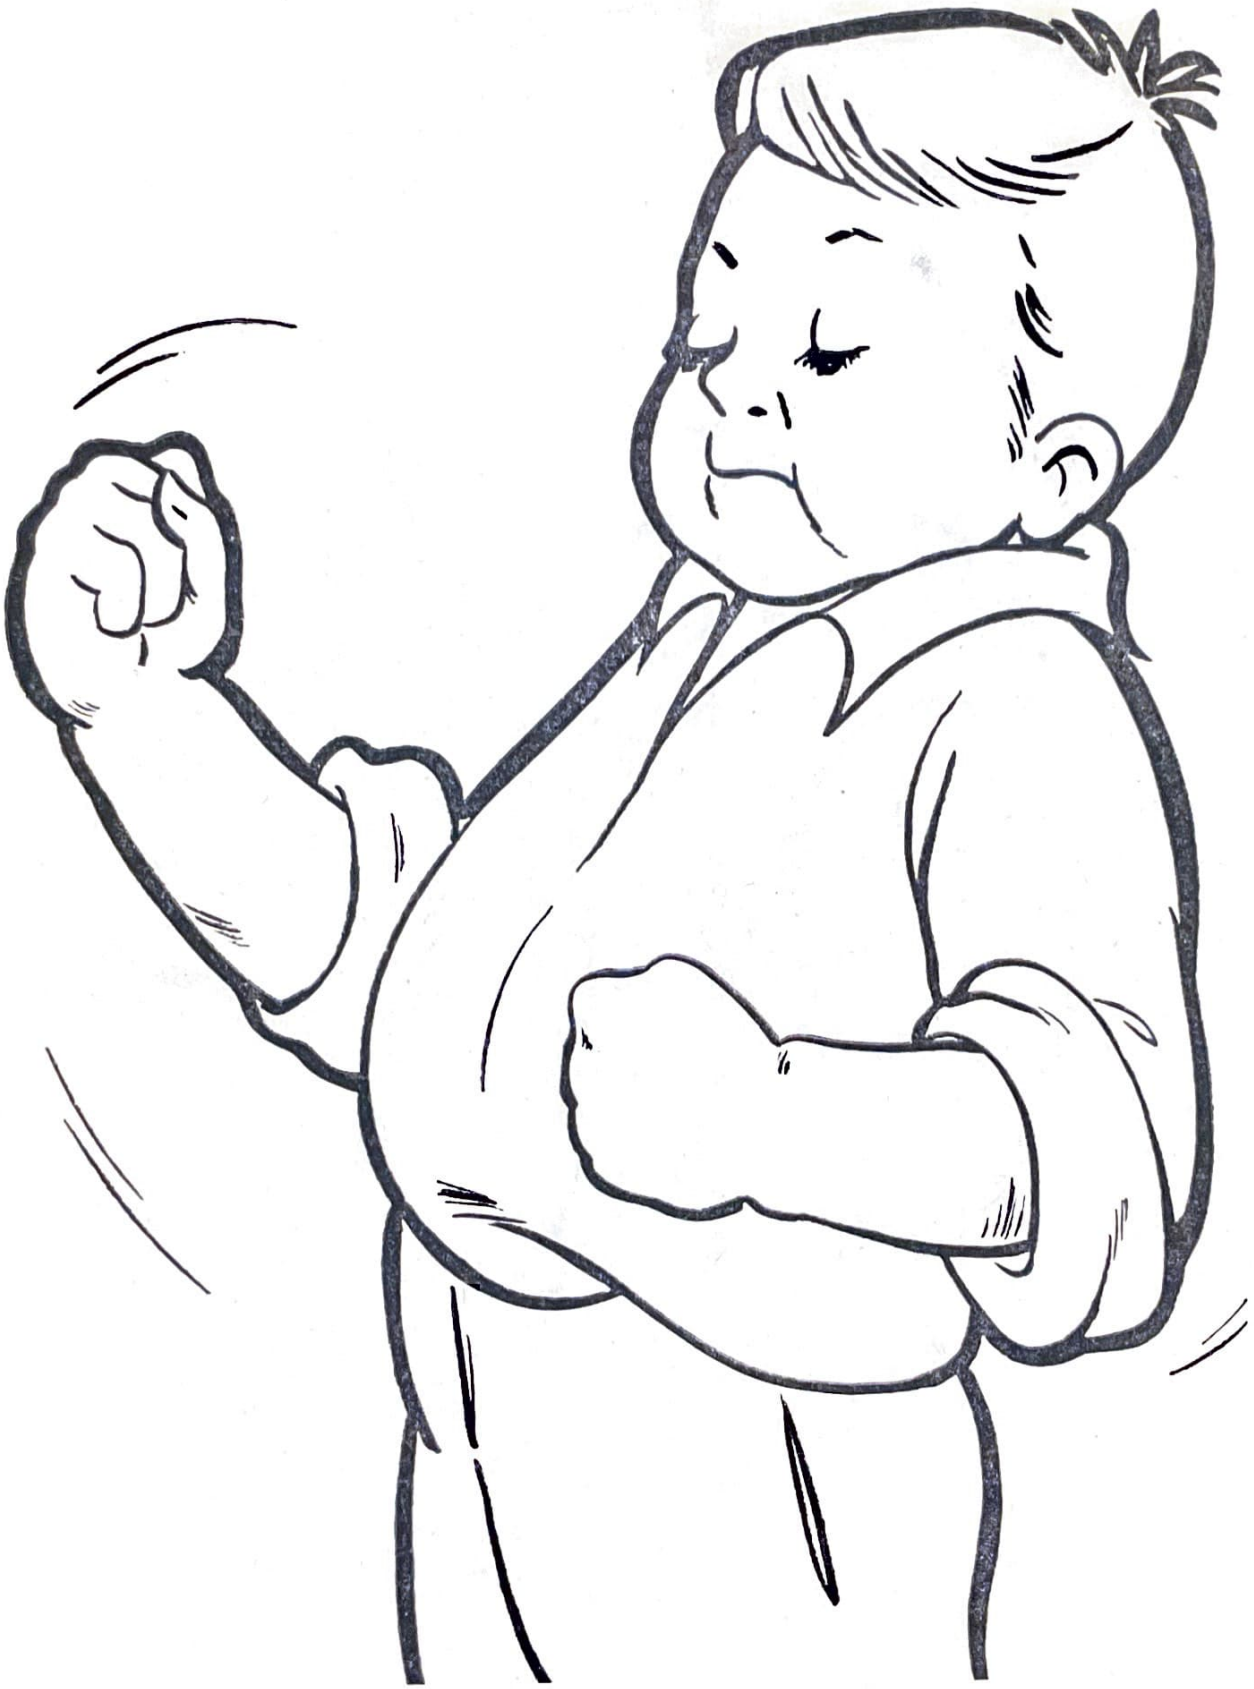


Barbara Ann is very proud of her curls and will hardly speak to anyone who hasn't any.

The Kewpies give her such a good dousing that she hasn't a curl left on her head.



Now Barbara's hair is straight but her heart is good and kind and she is very happy.



Johnny Smith is so proud of his strength that he makes other boys afraid of him.

The Kewpies snatch him up in the air as if he were of no importance at all.

They carry him to visit a kind giant,

The giant teaches him to use his strength to help people rather than hurt them.

THE KEWPIE
WHO WANTED TO BE A REAL BABY

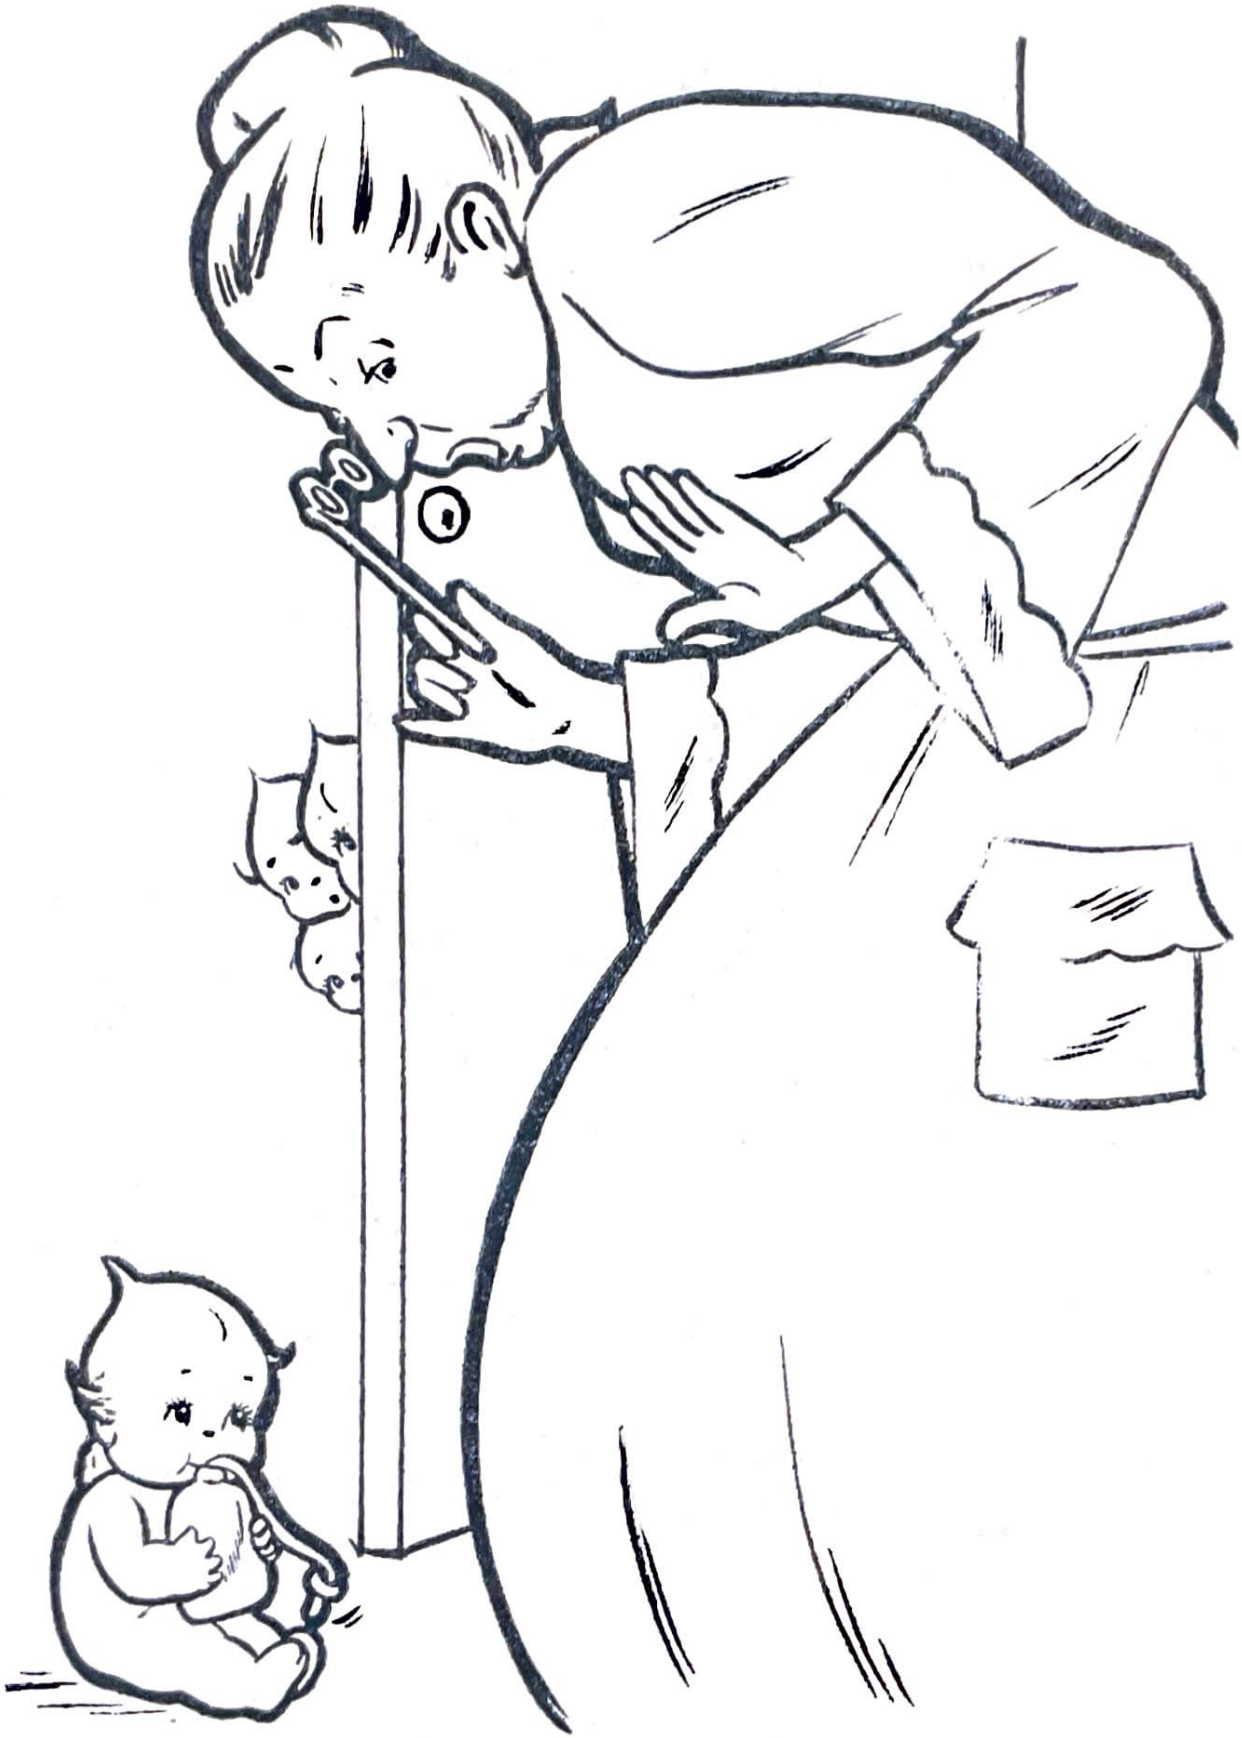
Cook paints a sign and hangs it up for all to see.

The sad Kewpie watches the lovely mother sing her baby to sleep.



The Kewpies leave him on doorsteps but they cannot find a mother for him.

They hear about a lonely dame who would like a little baby and put him on her bed.

The lonely dame adopts him and he has a glorious time.

This makes all of the Kewpies very pleased. They love to see everyone smiling and happy.

The Adventures of the KEWPIES COLORING BOOK

AUTHORIZED EDITION

COMMENDED by PARENTS' MAGAZINE AS ADVERTISED THEREIN

SAALFIELD